Delta Green

God's Teeth – The Beautiful

by FaceplateVTT

Character Dossiers

(in alphabetical order)

Darius Jeremiah Cruz

S-Cell – Agent Samuel

Darius Jeremiah Cruz

S-Cell – Agent Samuel

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: Tall, well-built, African American man. Face frozen and unemotional behind an eyepatch. Constantly seems as if in a fugue.

PHYSICAL DETAILS: Left-handed. Left eye is missing. 59yo, DOB 28 JAN 1967

SECURITY CLEARANCE: TS/SCI (Inactive)

PAYGRADE: FERS retirement pension

PERSONAL DETAILS: Darius was medically retired from federal employment in December 2021 following a JTTF assignment, during which he lost his left eye to a "cartel member" getting way too close to killing him for good. With no one in the Baltimore Field Office really missing his absence, his descent into a sedentary and isolated lifestyle was rapidly accelerated by his addiction. Luckily, his new lifelong opioid prescription meant that at least he wouldn't get into danger for it, and that no one would really question his dependence on drugs or find it unacceptable anymore.

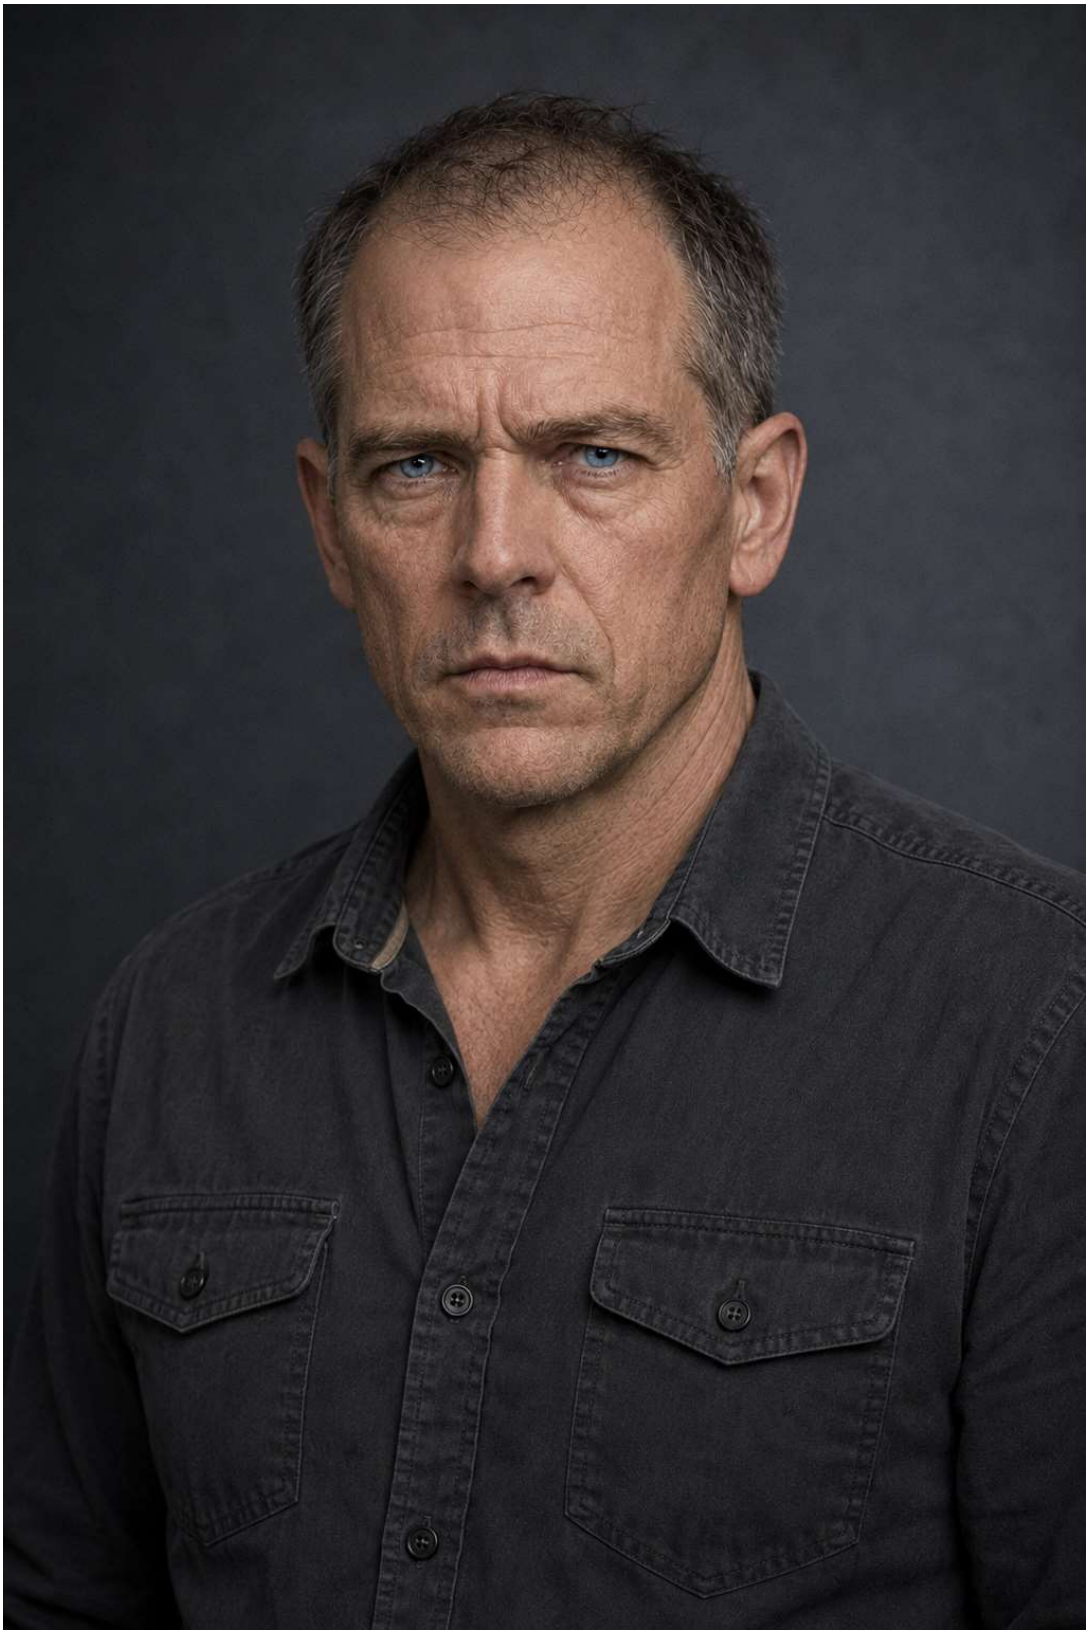

Practicing his original profession of being a surgeon is no longer possible due to the loss of one eye. The lack of depth perception is simply too dangerous with such fine work, and he doesn't seem to satisfy the new requirements for opening and maintaining his own clinic. When he is not high out of his mind in his studio apartment, he is usually doing nothing of value at all. Reading, watching TV, drinking coffee… Looks like things aren't going to change until the Program comes knocking again on his door to take this old dog out for a walk in the field one last time.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS: Cruz is only a shell of his former self. Completely estranged from his family and an addiction fed by the state itself has left him carved out from the inside. He spends long nights, ones too paranoid to be getting high at, staring at his front door from a safe firing position behind the couch. He maintains regular contact with Jones and has winded conversations with him about what they know so far. It helped, but it's a grating process for both sides. It's bad colliding with worse over a coffee table. Calling his behavior to be disagreeable would be an understatement.

CAREER HISTORY:

- June 1985: High School Diploma, Shaker Heights High School, Ohio
- May 1990: Bachelor of Science in Pharmaceutical Sciences, Ohio State University
- May 1994: Doctor of Medicine, Case Western Reserve University
- 1994–1998: General Surgery Residency, University Hospitals Cleveland Medical Center
- 1998: DEA Recruitment & Training
- 1998–2003: DEA Special Agent, Cleveland Field Office, Diversion Control (pharmaceutical investigations)
- 2003–2009: DEA Special Agent, Senior Case Agent; lead investigator on complex medical and prescription drug diversion cases
- 2009–2013: DEA Headquarters (Washington, D.C.), Diversion Control Section; policy liaison and interagency coordination with HHS, FDA, and state medical boards
- 2013–2016: DEA Assistant Special Agent in Charge (ASAC), Cleveland Field Office
- 2016–2021: DEA Assistant Special Agent in Charge (ASAC), Baltimore Field Office
- December 2021: Mandatory medical retirement under FERS

Michael Sajdak

S-Cell – Agent Seymour

Michael Sajdak

S-Cell – Agent Seymour

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: Broad-shouldered Caucasian man with a crooked posture. Facial features look almost ossified as if he is wearing his skin, staring daggers at anyone. Eyes are a strange shade even brighter than baby blue.

PHYSICAL DETAILS: Left-handed. 57yo, DOB 05 JUL 1969

SECURITY CLEARANCE: TS/SCI (Inactive)

PAYGRADE: FERS retirement pension

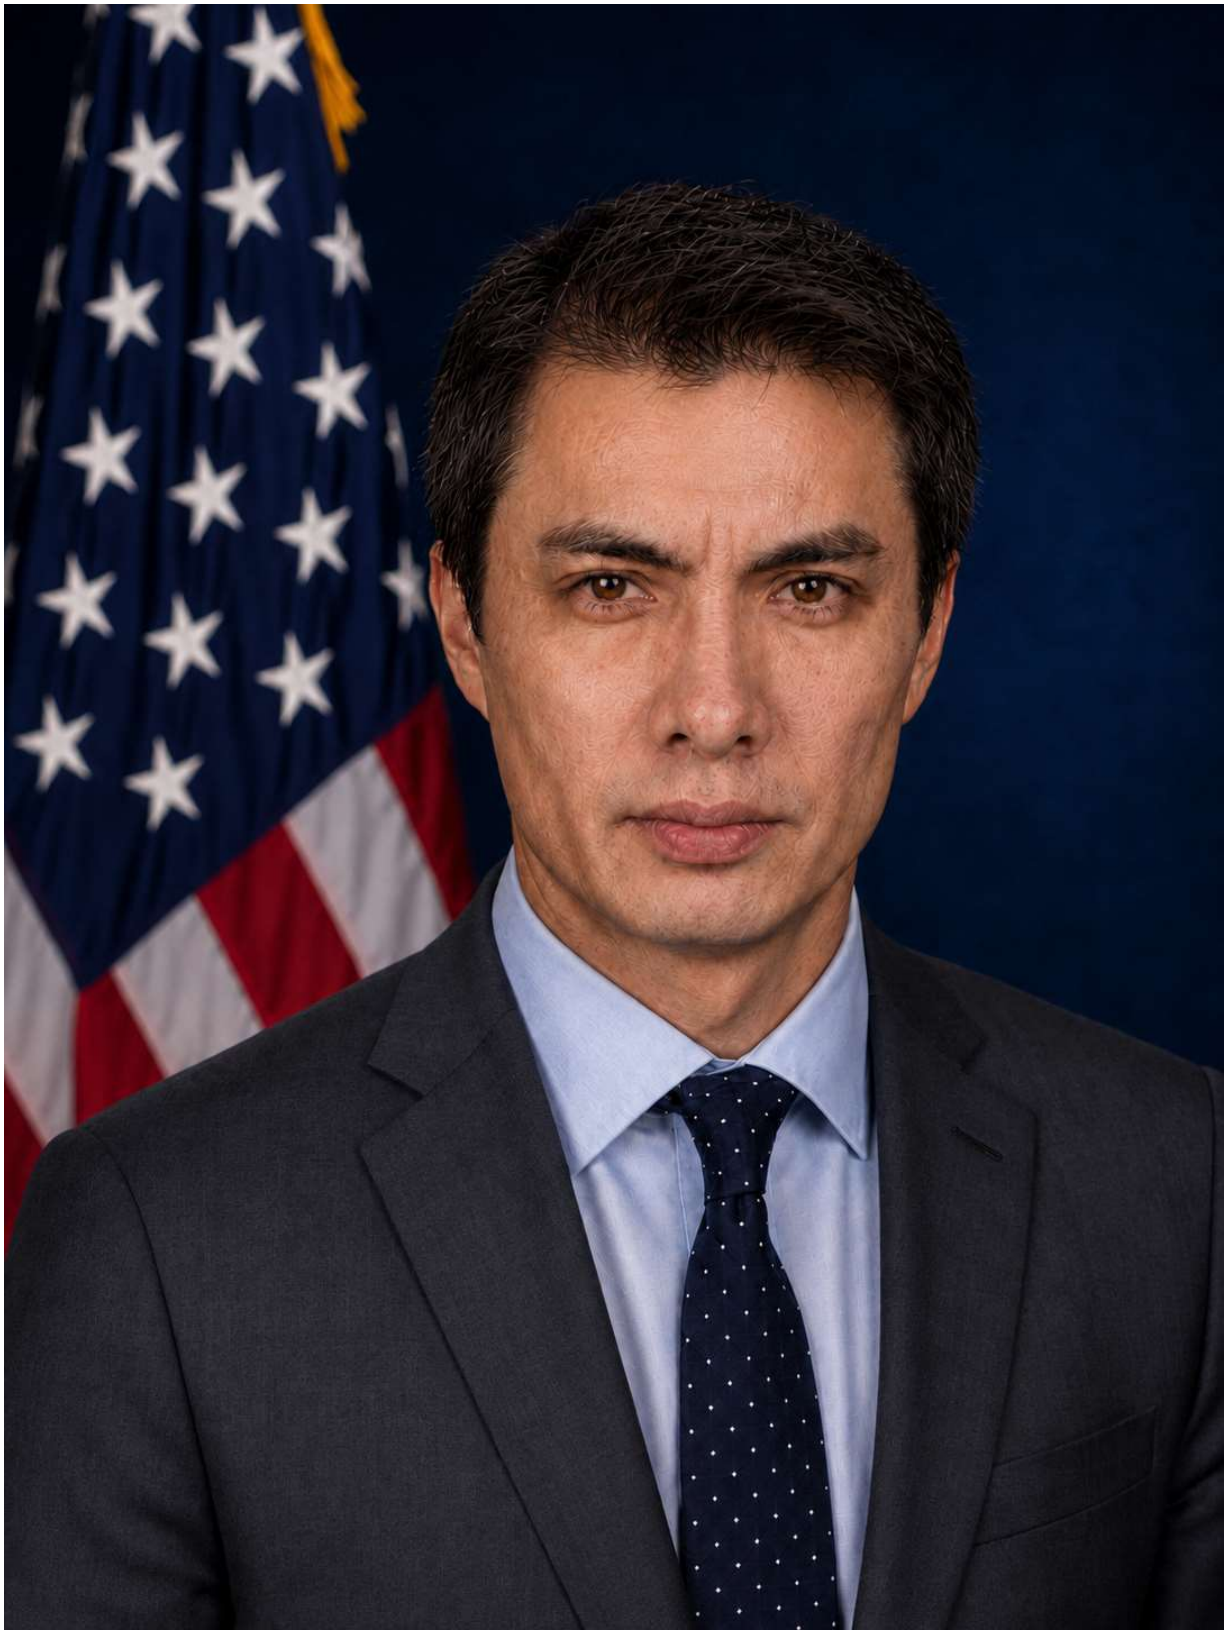

PERSONAL DETAILS: After being seperated from the federal government for good in July 2026, Sajdak was condemned to the prison of his own mind in suffocating silence. The mere existence outside being volun-told to do something for money was like his soul getting sanded to nothing on a lathe. A lifetime of tireless service was the only solid way to cope with the horrible truth for him. Now, it's the usual morning routine, followed by nothing… Not even a pissed-off woman shouting nonsense in his ear that would at least give him something to do.

The void is filled in with the sawdust of fringe topics that look nonsensical and childish compared to what he has seen. Books he never got around to finishing, ones that would have friends and family refer him to a mental institution if they saw him seriously debating it, if he had any such people left in the first place. It's a kind of tonic, the lies, upon the open wound reality has left on him. It will soothe it for now, til the Program comes around to tie up loose ends. And then, he will be free, one way or another. This time for real.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS: Sajdak did not have much to do besides trying to figure out the ins and outs of what's really going on since 2021. He decided it's best to indulge Sartore as much as possible to what's happening, witnessing firsthand her realization that she is on the same boat as he now. Despite the age gap, she doesn't find the old, jaded, broken old man impossible to communicate with as others do.

CAREER HISTORY:

- June 1987: Stuyvesant High School, New York City, NY
- June 1991: Bachelor of Arts in History, City University of New York
- May 1993: Master of Arts in History, Heidelberg University
- 1994–1995: CIA Recruitment & Training, Sherman Kent School
- 1995–1997: Junior Analyst, Europe & Russia Division
- 1997–1999: Intelligence Officer, Europe & Russia Division
- 1999–2006: Intelligence Analyst, CIA DCI's Office (Europe & Russia Desk) under cover (U.S. Department of Commerce)
- 2006–2011: Intelligence Officer, European Postings (Italy & Poland)
- 2011–2016: Intelligence Analyst, Domestic Assignment under cover (U.S. Department of Corrections)
- 2017: FERS medical retirement from CIA with disability retirement annuity
- 2018: U.S. Marshal conversion course (FLETC Glynco)
- 2018-2026: Deputy U.S. Marshal, Baltimore, District of Maryland
- July 2026: Mandatory retirement due to age under FERS

DEA Special Agent Chris Ken Prower

S-Cell - Agent Spencer

DEA Special Agent Chris Ken Prower

S-Cell - Agent Spencer

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: 5'6 and physically unimpressive. Rail thin. Sunken cheeks, looks a bit older than he should be. Has a definite slouch, and his neck sticks way too far forward.

PHYSICAL DETAILS: None. 40yo, DOB 28 MAY 1986

SECURITY CLEARANCE: TS/SCI

PAYGRADE: GL-10

PERSONAL DETAILS: The incident in 2021 took a part of Chris' soul and the entirity of his innocence. Communicating with him before was already difficult, and now, it's next to impossible. It's a huge obstacle between him and further progress in his career. Not like it matters anymore. The truth of life is much darker than anything office politics have to offer.

Estranged from his mother due to the psychological abuse from her he endured during his childhood, Chris' father is one of the few family members he cares about, not having any siblings. Meeting Chris' mother in college, he was one of the two major forces in his life encouraging him to pursure higher education, though he was not nearly as strict and forceful as her. While he is still married to Chris' mother and living with her, Chris enjoys his company enough to put up with her presence. Chris' childhood friend, coincidentally, is also the only friend that Chris' mother allowed him to hang out with after school, under the guise of studying. Jason and Chris could spend time with without having to worry about what his mother would think. Eventually, they were accepted into the same college, and they ended up working in the same startup before it eventually went under due to upper-level mismanagement. They still talk every day and hang out in person every once in a while. As for his mental health, he evidently doesn't have the same psychologist he had as a child. Chris ditched her after an episode of paranoid delusions of her feeding information back to his mother, and it didn't seem right to start seeing her again afterwards. He still needs someone to prescribe him the medication he's been taking since his early teens, and it helps to have someone to talk to that can analyze things from a critical but kind angle.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS: Her ex was half-black and lived adjacent to the 'hood'. She was one of the only girls that would give Chris the time of day. Once he stopped working at fun startups, really, once the entertainment stopped, she was bored of him, and dropped him. Now, once a month, child support checks are sent to take care of Chris' 15-year-old son. He's growing up fast, and despite how wild she was during their relationship, he seems to be growing up fine. He suspected she was on drugs at one point, but somehow, his therapist convinced him it was just his paranoia. After that, he didn't fight for custody, and she granted him one day a week to spend time with him. Probably so she can have fun on her own while somebody else watches him. It doesn't bother him. Chris hasn't invested much time into seeing girls or finding a wife after that.

CAREER HISTORY:

- June 2004: High School Diploma, Baltimore Polytechnic Institute, MA
- May 2008: Bachelor of Science in Computer Engineering, University of Maryland, MA
- 2008-2009: Software developer, Big Huge Games, Timonium, MD.
- 2009-2011: Software developer, Millennial Media, Baltimore, MD
- 2011-2015: Software developer, Northrop Grumman Electronic Systems, Linthicum, MD
- 2015-2017: NSA Cybersecurity Specialist, civilian equiv. to Cyber Warfare Operations Officer in the U.S. Navy, Cybersecurity Division, Ft. Meade
- 2017-2018: DEA Application & Training (Quantico, VA)
- 2018-2019: DEA Special Agent, New York Field Division

DEA Special Agent Francesca Romina Sartore

S-Cell - Agent Sylvia

DEA Special Agent Francesca Romina Sartore

S-Cell - Agent Sylvia

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: Slim, athletic-built woman with a Mediterranean (Southern Italian) facial structure and complexion. 5'9". Dark hair, kept short. Sunken cheeks with features of aging are becoming apparent.

PHYSICAL DETAILS: Left-handed. Small cut scar on left cheek. 37yo, DOB 21 JUN 1989

SECURITY CLEARANCE: TS/SCI

PAYGRADE: GL-10

PERSONAL DETAILS: Ever since 2021, Sartore could not look at her family the same way. Not after being forced to do what she did in that school, to an innocent person. It's hard to imagine a normal life after seeing so many corpses of people who could have been under her responsibility strewn out and about. Now she is stuck in DEA fighting a war she does not believe in.

Sartore's adult life has developed along an unusually direct institutional path. Following eight years of Marine Corps service, she completed an accelerated academic transition into federal law enforcement. Her degree provided the necessary credentials for agency placement, but did not produce strong academic identification. She remains more comfortable with procedure, evidence handling, force protection, and field action. Her professional identity is strongly tied to military service, federal duty, and personal discipline. She appears to regard public service as an obligation rather than a career preference, and reacts poorly to perceived disrespect toward the United States, the Marine Corps, or lawful institutional authority. This is reinforced by personal pride and a Catholic moral structure. Sartore maintains an active family life. Despite recent reassignment to Baltimore, her husband and daughter remain central stabilizing attachments, and her parents remain within regular contact. Existing friendships outside the family are limited but durable, primarily former Marine Corps contacts. Stress responses are controlled and practical in presentation. She is teetotaler and has no known history of hard drug use, although she has been considering it lately.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS: Sartore tends to treat rapport as an operational vulnerability. She displays marked sensitivity to threats to the traditional family structure, challenges to personal autonomy, and conduct she interprets as sloppy or undisciplined. She is left-handed, Catholic, and is known to maintain personal motorcycle transport. Observed humor is dry, defensive, and often used to suppress anger or avoid emotional exposure.

CAREER HISTORY:

- June 2007: High School Diploma, Mira Mesa High School, San Diego, CA
- September 2007: US Marine Corps Enlistment as Military Police
- 2008-2011: Domestic deployment, 5811 Military Police. Camp Pendleton PMO, CA
- 2011-2013: Overseas deployment, Base Security/PMO Force Protection, Camp Lemonnier, Djibouti
- 2013-2015: Domestic deployment, Force Protection NCO, Camp Pendleton PMO/ATFP
- November 2015: Honorable discharge
- 2015-2017: Private security officer, Allied Universal (CA)
- May 2017: Bachelor of Science in Criminology, Law and Society, California UC Irvine
- 2017-2018: DEA Application & Training (Quantico, VA)
- 2018-2019: DEA Special Agent, Los Angeles Field Division
- 2019-2026: DEA Special Agent, Baltimore Field Office

Supervisory Deputy U.S. Marshal George Elijah Jones

S-Cell – Agent Simon

Supervisory Deputy U.S. Marshal George Elijah Jones

S-Cell – Agent Simon

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: Tall, heavily built Samoan with a bald head. Aging took its toll, moves evasive and calculated. Seems to have taken on a softer side. Shockingly insightful at any given moment, and non-confrontational at times.

PHYSICAL DETAILS: None. 56yo, DOB 12 APR 1970

SECURITY CLEARANCE: TS/SCI

PAYGRADE: GS-15

PERSONAL DETAILS: Jones has become a sort of an office mascot and a local legend in his time in the Marshals. Somehow fulfilling both the responsibilities of an administrative role and earning a masters degree in physics at the same time is not just unthinkable for most, but a nightmare when they realize the implications of how hard it is. It's not that simple. Jones has no other choice but to comprehend and find a solution to the horrible thing that enslaved him and the rest of the Teeth.

It takes a special sort of inspiration and help from the divine to achieve what he did, similar to the sorts of Ramanujan re-inventing mathematics from scratch while being illiterate. Despite this, his name is not known to anyone outside of top academic circles. Dr. Lewiston is long dead in a sort of "stop here, or you're next" message. He did not push into further study after that, and chose to remain in his position and spend his spare time studying on his own. It's not exactly focused nor professional, and it looks like this is where the line ends for him.

Regarding his professional life, it's genuinely difficult to take him seriously anymore. The FBI investigation following Lewison's arrest and release in Europe almost put an end to his career, but he was clean as milk regarding the almost-catastrophic experiment. It's as if a college professor was taken from his office and made to work in federal law enforcement. Although he gets shit done when he must and tends to approve of sick leaves often, so no one is essentially mad at him for deciding to do what he did with his life. Simply put, people think he is uncanny.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS: Obsession over researching the phenomenon that is the driving force of his existence made Jones a person unrecognizable to who he was before, who was already unrecognizable to the man he was before all this started. He talks to Cruz often about his findings, but doesn't exactly take him for granted given that he is an addict. He's cold, detached in such a way that makes a sociopath ripping a kitten's head off seem sympathetic to the creature. He simply does not care, about anything, about himself or others. What matters is the truth. And he will face it soon, knowing that it's coming.

CAREER HISTORY

- June 1988: High School Diploma, Bethel High School, Hampton, VA
- September 1988: U.S. Army Reserve Enlistment – Transportation / Logistics Support
- 1988: Domestic deployment (329th Transportation Company, Fort Eustis, VA)
- May 1992: Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice, Virginia Commonwealth University
- November 1992: Honorable discharge
- 1993: Tidewater Regional Police Academy, VA
- 1993–1995: Probation & Parole Officer, Richmond PD, VA
- 1995–1997: Patrol Officer, Richmond PD, VA
- 1997: USMS Application & Training (FLETC Glynco)
- 1998–2003: Deputy U.S. Marshal, Eastern District of Virginia, Fugitive Task Force
- 2003–2007: Deputy U.S. Marshal, Eastern District of Virginia, Violent Fugitive Apprehension Task Force
- 2007–2011: Deputy U.S. Marshal, Mid-Atlantic & Southeast Regions, Regional Task Force Liaison
- 2011–2014: Senior Deputy U.S. Marshal, Richmond/Norfolk, VA-Mid-Atlantic Region, Special Assignments (ad hoc)

- 2014–2016: Senior Deputy U.S. Marshal, Richmond/Norfolk, VA-Mid-Atlantic Region
- May 2019: Bachelor of Science in Physics, University of Maryland
- 2016-2026: Supervisory Deputy U.S. Marshal, Baltimore, District of Maryland
- May 2022: Master of Science in Physics, University of Maryland
- April 2027: Mandatory retirement under 5 U.S.C. Chapter 83/84 (ineligible for optional)