God's Teeth - They Wanted Peace Session 1

July 11, 2026

Hunger: Delta Green - God's Teeth - They Wanted Peace

Hunger: A game about futility.

Hunger: MON 21 DEC 21 1145R.

Hunger: Braddock Rd., Beltway intersection near Ravensworth Grove, Ravensworth, VA.

Hunger: The clattering of teeth and deep breaths are swept under the rug by the dissonant black metal coming from the speakers, violent waves reverberating inside the van. It's sharp cold with no snow, but everyone is sweating bullets.

Hunger: He slams the mag inside the rifle and pulls back the charging handle. He contemplates it for a bit. Someone else blutters out, "This is it. We're really doing this, after all."

Hunger: The young man quickly shoulders the rifle and points it straight at his friends face. The other boy does not flinch. The leader laughs, "Why would you be scared? You know you aren't going to die just yet." He doesn't get a reply more sophisticated than a smirk. His would-be target checks the safety on the pistol he has been holding. The boy then speaks, "I'm not fucking scared."

Hunger: A rail-thin girl who has been sitting quiet in the back does her hair back before fastening a mask on her face. "You look pretty in that," someone spills. "I know."

Hunger: The rest begin loading and checking their weapons. Some tap their vests, made for much more than just a jab with a fist. Some control the wiring on things and curios piled up in a duffel bag...

Hunger: The driver takes a sip of a milkshake in the cup holder as if none of this is real. "Last stop. Ten minutes. I love you people, it has been a real game of cat and mouse."

Hunger: MON 10 JUN 13 1630C.

Hunger: Gate B. Camp Lemmonier, DJ.

Hunger: Sartore. The afternoon glare slow cooks you alive through your sunscreen. Another day, another curse and spit towards Giscard for deciding to pack up and leave this godforsaken place.

The guy meant to be on this shift is getting his rotten teeth drilled in, that means its time to get your ass up and do "something useful for once [sic]".

Hunger: Matter of fact, anyone with half a brain would want to leave Djibouti. It's just that legionnaires, once considered subhuman, did not get to say no to guarding it. You're not so far off from where they once stood on the matter, but it's that this time you get to stand below the sun rather than spend the shift in an air conditioned prefab, which is more "broiler on low setting" than "covered in napalm". You reckon they didn't even have that luxury, not to mention no base wi-fi as well. For entertainment, you only have a radio jangling from a table nearby and Moses told you to not mess with it, because it doesn't work when you play with the AM/FM knob. Or so he wants you to think. Your second option is Corporal Moses himself, though he's not exactly a ladies man he's exactly a clown sometimes. You don't know if can keep doing tricks for the next three hours.

CPL Moses Higgins: He coughs.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "What's on your mind, bud?"

CPL Moses Higgins: He doesn't reply.

Hunger: That's the scoop for now, Sartore. This is Camp Lemonnier, named after the legendary and half-mythical warlord known for owning tens of thousand of female slaves and destroying entire villages of his enemies and conquering the world... but that was someone else and Lemonnier was a legionary officer or something. You have infinite years, infinite days and infinite hours until your next deployment elsewhere, so might as well enjoy it. In the mean time, what is on your mind?

SA Francesca R. Sartore: How I shouldn't be out here in this dog ass gate. I'm missing AC with every fiber of my being.

CPL Moses Higgins: "Hey, you wanna hear a joke?"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Yes. Please."

CPL Moses Higgins: "A man walks into a library and says, "I'd like a cheeseburger."." "The librarian says, "Sir, this is a library."." "He whispers, "Sorry," then leans in and says, "I'd like a cheeseburger."."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "That makes absolutely zero fucking sense to me."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Just shut up now."

Hunger: It's a quiet day. Quiet like the rest. Djibouti is a road stop on the way to the real hell called the rest of Africa. But it doesn't matter, soldiers, terrorists, wars, it really does not. You're just a tiny cog in the meat grinder called Africa. Countless generations fought for it before you and countless will fight for it after you. You're just wasting your fucking time here, and you should have went to college instead. French Somaliland, a giant mistake in of itself, is the reason why Camp Lemonnier exists. ADT and Legion units rotated through it routinely in the many established defense agreements between the newly found Djibouti and France. Why even achieve independence if you can't even raise a fucking army in the first place, one would ask. We don't know. Ancient history. Many dominoes later Uncle Sam decided to "just walk in and take it" like it does most of the time, without a care in the world as to what people having to work here might think. Meaningless compared to the volume of the resource flow through Aden. Long story short here you are, fighting someone else's long, boring and meaningless war. And you don't get to shoot anyone and do cool Marine shit. The current security posturing is FPCON Normal, but the base still operates closed-cycle as it always did. The threat briefing mainly concerns elements of Al-Shabaab acting north of Somalia and the usual pirates. The pirates are smart enough to not even get in radar range of the base, which they somehow triangulated after decades of probing it and losing hundreds of men, but Al-Shabaab often has nothing but bodies to lose. They have a lot of martyrs to gain, and they haven't acted yet. ISIS/ISIL is not -yet- a security problem in this part of the world, though anyone with half a brain can tell it's very well a few months away from being so. Just like how those hypothetically intelligent people would want to pack up and get the fuck out of here.

CPL Moses Higgins: "You wanna hear another joke?"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Okay." I turn my head towards him.

CPL Moses Higgins: "Why did the chicken cross the bridge?" "Because no one really understood why he crossed the road the last time."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "That's marginally better."

Hunger: Sartore, roll ALERTNESS.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: SA Francesca R. Sartore rolls Failure -> 95 (Rolling Alertness Target: 50%)

"Zombie" Mercedes: A sedan is approaching. Looks like a Mercedes. Suspension is almost scraping the floor. It's riding heavy. Two people visible inside. It's speeding up. As it does, you realize that it's a Hajji sitting next to a Black driver. Quickly enough, it's too fast to come to a complete halt before arriving at the gate.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "HIGGINS."

Hunger: Too late. You black out before you even realize what just happened. Looks like the end is much quicker than people think it will be.

CPL Francesca R. Sartore: Condition Changes Unconscious

CPL Moses Higgins: Condition Changes Unconscious Dead Departed

Hunger: You manage to open your eyes and get up on your feet. You're not feeling any pain (at the moment) but it looks like you can't get a stable footing or control your right arm. Your hand reflexively goes to your holster, and it feels reassuring to know that your pistol is still there despite your rifle being launched off its sling to god knows where.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Any footsteps around me?

Hunger: Much more.

Hunger: You limp towards the black streak extending from the burning hull of the car. The base of it is firmly planted to a shallow crater while the rest is... all over the town. Moses is dead. Torn to pieces, a face connected to a torso black with char. He's gone. You're still not alone. A darkly man is crawling on the floor towards the base, the alarm perhaps ringing but you can not hear it through the tinnitus. It looks like he is slowly getting up. You're about ten meters away from him, with the distance between you growing. How did he survive that?

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm drawing and firing at him immediately.

???: You get closer to the man on the floor. That's not a "man". You don't know what it is. It looks back at you for a moment.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "CHE FUCKING CAZZO IS TH--"

???: Without a second thought you draw on and execute the thing with half a magazine through the skull. You walk up to it and continue until the trigger stiffens up as you run out of ammo. It does not move again. It stinks of fish. You tumble on your back, having a last look at the blue sky and black smoke rising through the tunnel of your eyes. Red and blue ambulance lights reflect off the walls as you go to sleep.

???: Condition Changes Dead Departed

Hunger: In a few years, you'll be in a much different position than you are in right now...Roll SANLOSS.

Hunger: Parsed.

Hunger: FRI 26 JUN 15 2000R.

Hunger: Northrop Grumman Campus, Mission Systems 2F, Linthicum, MA.

Hunger: Prower. Your dry eyes hurt as slightly as your head throbs. You feel like a kid again, but not just for the joy of the task at hand. You're reaching out for the pie fresh out the oven, one you were hinted that you're not supposed to take a bite out of before it's served up. But you're gonna do it anyway. Because you're bored. And all work no play makes Jack a dull boy.

SA Chris K. Prower: What's the task at hand here?

Hunger: Something interesting came in this morning and it will be out the same way tomorrow. A flight recorder from an "American" aircraft was sent in for inspection and possible decryption. Except, it's not American whatsoever. Management coughed it up to some kind of sorting mistake and more than happily agreed to return it to sender, but it looks like you got some alone time to play with it. You can tell that this will be a never-see never-be type of deal, because whoever is responsible for it in the military logistics chain would get a serious ass chewing all the way up to command if it ever made public. "It spent an extra day in the warehouse because it got misplaced" is a much more plausible explanation compared to a big, ugly fuckup that no one above the rank of E-5 would ever want.

Hunger: It's a potentially once in a lifetime field exercise with cryptography for you (especially so if you get fired after this), but you're certain you are going to get promoted if you manage to take some work off the NSA's hands and prove that American defense contractors are so great they even make the army itself suck it. Cryptography has been your guilty pleasure ever since you had the fortune of witnessing the rise of cryptocurrency from the front row and the misfortune of participating in some of the worst crashes it has and will ever see. You got liquidated twice out of your savings, but the losses were not major enough to call it well played and take the leap off the tenth story. Your day job pays you more than enough to live comfortably and your life is still somewhat interesting, though the train to be a billionaire by being a whale or a startup owner is one you missed. Money can't buy this shit anyway. You don't really understand Russian, but the majority of the firmware is written by Elbit Systems. An Israeli defense company and military manufacturer that also produces control units for a variety of domestic and export drones. The few words you happen to see are in English and you have all the processing power you need here. In the mean time, what are you thinking right now?

SA Chris K. Prower: I'm considering what the gains are in case I manage to scrape something useful off of this unit. Never mind getting fired, why the hell did I volunteer to do this in the first place?

SA Chris K. Prower: If I wanted an exercise in cryptography, cracking that hot new Telegram thing could have served just as well.

Hunger: Good question.

Hunger: As far as you can see the FLR belongs to a Forpost drone. 7 million dollars a pop, the pride of the Russian air force as surveillance equipment goes. Why is it sitting in front of you, and why haven't you put it back in the box yet and pretend to never have touched it are questions still up in the air. You're extremely close to getting through, it seems like one of the "features" the Israelis kept was identical cryptographic keys to other Elbit systems in order to get past the protection. You have no idea if the Russians are even aware of this, but you're seeing the argument on why a country should strive for totally domestic defense production with your own two eyes. Are they supposed to send it back to Israel to get it unlocked in case they recover the black box? U.S. government does it with iPhones, perhaps.... What could it possibly have inside anyway? Ten Ukrainians walking around smoking cigarettes moments before getting blown up? When you think about it, it's not that stupid. It would be laughable to even try it back home on your iMac but here, connected to the Northrop servers, on a workstation, you have a chance to pull it off. Roll SIGINT, blind.

Hunger: You access the interface for the brute forcing query and lay out the parameters you've managed to figure out. Most of the fields are empty, save for manufacturer, model and operator. As you walk away from the monitor to the other end of the office to get some coffee, a sharp piezoelectric siren goes off at your workstation. Shocked, you spill cold brown all over your hands and shirt before sprinting back. You are thrown to a very simple terminal screen after the multiple story-spanning servers you're sitting above used tens of millions of dollars of taxpayer money to input hundreds of trillions of guesses per second into the orange cylinder the size of your head. If it was someone else other than a company that produces 85% of IDF's equipment, you'd probably still be waiting. You were lucky enough that the American side did their own homework regarding foreign products. The most dear secrets of the not-enemy are laid bare before you.

SA Chris K. Prower: Motherfucker. Okay, let's see this.

Hunger: Besides extensive documentation on the most recent flight, the only thing present on the super-ruggedized 50TB SSD plugged into the system seems to be the camera feed. Flight telemetry is above and beyond you, you have no idea what the hell is even going on in that department. Figuring out without asking a drone operator or a fighter pilot would be like repeating the Chinese room experiment. However, you can watch the video. It's recorded multispectrally, meaning that you have all 4 regular-nightvision-infrared-NV/INF options at once. The NV/INF combination produces the most clear picture, as it looks to be a night operation. Radio chatter is not present (arguably never transmitted back to the drone to begin with), and a long-range directional microphone is not mounted although there seems to be support for it. The telemetry information and the footage seems to be exclusively fresh. You intuit that it's completely wiped between sorties by the maintenance crew as it's transferred to digital storage far away from prying eyes. It seems that it's possible to turn off the video feed save entirely, although it's turned on, perhaps due to doctrine or policy. Now that you broke into this thing you realize you're in terra incognita, out the frying pan and into the fire. You begin watching the footage...

Hunger: You immediately get too impatient at the blankness of the first forty minutes. You skip ahead to when it reaches intended cruising altitude and begins its journey west, towards Ukraine. It's quite short, as the map bearing crosses what you assume to be the border pretty soon. You can't tell which drone wing it took off from, but an intelligence guy should be able to do so fairly quickly.

Hunger: It flies next to what must be Luhansk according to coordinates, dodging the city airspace by a tiny margin. You can't see the full flight radar map of the region, but the operator probably was. It does some turns here and there to give breathing room to airliners, for there's no other explanation as to why it's not just heading straight like an arrow. Another thirty minutes of flight go past without event. The camera begins focusing on the lights of a small town. The operator triangulates its position based on a nearby city (not Luhansk) and keeps the focus of the camera on it until several lights appear. It gets closer and closer, until you see a sea of corpses on scattered across the floor.

Hunger: (You can see these in Journals tab, they are available.)

SA Chris K. Prower: ...What in the... By my rough estimation, is a 'sea of corpses' in the range of something like a hundred, or maybe even twice that amount or more?

Hunger: Close to a hundred.

Hunger: It looks like a massacre happened here. No way to tell if these are rebels or Russian troops. There are no active infrared strobes or signage of any kind, and all you see are unrecognizable piles of bodies. Eventually, one of them begins stirring. One of the dead men get up. It slouches on its feet and immediately lurches over to the next body, tearing it up at the joints with what must be its teeth and ripping the limbs apart. The sight is cartoonish, almost ridiculous, due to how far you are. It looks like edgy stickman animations from 2000s Internet. The problem is that it's real.

Hunger: As the man takes the limbs off, he chews on the exposed meat a bit before attaching them back to his body in strange ways. The drone is flying quite close at this point and you can not believe your eyes. He does the same thing to another corpse, and then another, and then another, until he looks like he is wearing a skirt made out of ripped-apart legs and with ten new arms that all function. He eats the heads whole and grows a little larger with each one consumed. A fucked up tribute to a many-limbed Hindu god. Eventually he gets as big as a truck. There aren't many bodies left. Few string-like infrared lasers appear out of nowhere, and immediately afterwards, firing breaks out from all angles. Automatic gunshots, small explosions... The thing screams in pain as its newly attached limbs are torn off from the raw physics of the wall of bullets hitting it.

Hunger: It sprints over to the machinegunner and tears his head off, right before eating it. Without bothering to chew, it tries to break up his body with brute force, eventually succeeding. It then attaches the legs to itself, growing larger. Then it skitters like a small but extremely quick spider to the next squad member, ripping him apart live and sparing the head for the last this time. He is met with an equally atrocious fate. At this point, the entire screen glows. The rest of the team retreated and the footage catches a brief glimpse of a guided bomb meeting the ground. The thing is no more. Hot, white bits and pieces scatter all over like confetti, and those still alive turn their infrared strobes on.

Hunger: A warning on the screen appears afterward. You don't know what it says, but it is blinking. The operator hastily searches the skies for anything, only to realize a formation of jets are coming straight towards it. Another, much smaller object is leading them at a much greater speed. A few seconds later, the footage ends. You feel the facepalm of the operator through the screen...Except, this wasn't just a little game or some edgy video you saw on the internet. Whatever it is, it's top secret, compartmentalized. The realization hits you a moment too late. It has been the most questionable twenty minutes of your life so far. Roll SANLOSS.

Hunger: Parsed.

Hunger: The sliding glass doors to the office section open, but you don't hear any footsteps. You're still too shook to tell whether that was a person or just a wind and you're hearing or seeing things that aren't there due to the terror. It was not the wind. Roll DODGE.

SA Chris K. Prower: SA Chris K. Prower rolls Success -> 18 (Rolling Dodge Target: 50%)

A Man, in a suit: You jump out of your seat to dodge the mans grab...

A Woman, in a suit: But your backstep did not take you to any kind of safety. A burlap sack is quickly fitted around your head, and you start going dizzy and then fuzzy to the prick you feel in your side. You pass out before coming to regret staying in this evening.

Hunger: When you wake up, you can smell the dust and mothballs of a cramped and airless space. You feel like you're sitting upright, and that your hands are tied behind you on a chair with some ziptie. An unknown male voice says. "He's up." Looks like they didn't bash you over the head or anything. You remember what happened, and can speak freely. It's not guaranteed they'll listen.

Hunger: An unknown male voice says. "He's up." Looks like they didn't bash you over the head or anything. You remember what happened, and can speak freely. It's not guaranteed they'll listen.

SA Chris K. Prower: "H-hey! Who are you, people?!"

SA Chris K. Prower: Did I even hear myself speak just now? How suffocating is that bag?

Hunger: The male voice says: "What the fuck? You said he'd forget it?" An unknown female voice says: "I don't know. They usually do." The male says: "Alright, no problem. Plan B it is." You hear the racking of a pistol slide.

SA Chris K. Prower: "No! W-wait!"

Hunger: Roll POW.

SA Chris K. Prower: SA Chris K. Prower rolls CRITICAL SUCCESS! -> 55 (Rolling POW Target: 70%)

Hunger: You can speak freely.

SA Chris K. Prower: "Don't you pull that trigger, you know you can come to regret it!"

Hunger: You hear a deep sigh.

SA Chris K. Prower: "You're going to shoot me, for, what, breaking in?"

Hunger: The female says: "Wait. Just, no."

Hunger: The male says: "Why?"

Hunger: The female says: "Come on. This isn't us. Plus, they said we need to replace the losses. I think the description fits so far."

Hunger: An awkward silence ensues.

SA Chris K. Prower: I say not another word. I think I'll give them some more time to think in silence.

Hunger: The male says: "I guess you're right. Hit him again. Looks like I have a call to make. Beats digging a hole."

Hunger: You feel another prick on your side before passing out...

Hunger: ...

Hunger: "Wakey wakey. You have a second chance at life." When you start seeing bits of light through the sack again, the air is much colder and fresher this time. It's running AC. Your tied-up hands are grabbed and harshly put against a cold surface, where you quickly find a plastic pen you identify by the feel of it. A second, unknown male voice is talking to you. This one sounds a bit old. "Sign here."

SA Chris K. Prower: I just put an 'X' down. Whatever they got me to sign wouldn't be legally binding. ...I think?

Hunger: You grip the pen, but you're clueless. Your hands are led to where you assume to be the signature box on a paper from the feel of the surface, and you jot it down quick for the lack of a better choice. "You think you're smart huh."

Hunger: "I mean it."

SA Chris K. Prower: "Okay, okay, man."

SA Chris K. Prower: I scribble over it with something that's a bit like a Ch and a K if it was written out on a physician's note.

Hunger: "Good, we'll be in touch in the future. When you wake up you'll have to pretend this has never happened, or you're in for one hell of a trouble. You just signed a confession to leaking defense secrets to the Chinese. I'll spare you the details, but you'll be in ADX Florence before you reach a journalist. I hope you don't forget this." A moments pause, "Go ahead."

Hunger: You're grabbed by the wrist and dragged on your heels to an echoey parking garage and thrown into the back of a vehicle. You're packed up into a fetal position with the help of an unkind hand before you're sedated for the last time tonight. When you come to be, you're on the floor in front of your apartment with some empty beer bottles around you. All your belongings are there, and it looks like you came to be before any honest folk woke up for work. This isn't over. Soon, you'll know why...

Hunger: Some time in 2017...

Hunger: Your house.

Hunger: George. It looks like she isn't happy about the person you're turning into. When you think about it, you feel stupid as well, for this whole thing. Why were you ever with someone who appreciated the fact that you're so big and stupid? Why did everything untangle the moment you found some real meaning to your life? Obviously, telling her about what happened in Florida is a non-starter, but she is being unusually disrespectful and unreceptive to your attempts to cope with it.

Hunger: "I FUCKING HATE YOUUU!!"

SDUDM George E. Jones: George just leans against the railing with a palm over his face, shaking his head.

Hunger: "YOUR STUPID FUCKING PAPERS AND--!"

SDUDM George E. Jones: There is no point in explaining shit to someone in hysterics. I'd really like to get the fuck out of here.

Hunger: It's been a good thirty of fourty five minutes of trying to do that anyway. You grab your keys and go out the front door. When you come back, she's left too.

Hunger: In some shitty motel in Michigan.

Hunger: Cruz. You had to escape. The whole suburbia thing was really getting to you after coming back. People all around, wifey wants divorce, and despite it all the lawn still needs mowing. Why not just say fuck it, take time off and chase the dragon? Nobody is gonna know. The phone is ringing at the most inconvenient time, as it tends to do. It's your son. He's 30 soon.

Hunger: "I know you're there. Please."

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "...Hello?"

Hunger: "Call it off, dad. You're too old for this shit. Come on, mamma can't do with anyone but you."

Hunger: "You guys can fix it. See a counsellor or something, just talk to me."

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "I-... I've been trying. You think I want this?"

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "Slurring? I'm not slurring, am I??"

Hunger: "..."

Hunger: "Why are you slurring like that?"

Hunger: "Jesus..."

Hunger: "Jesus Fucking Christ dad."

Hunger: He hangs up.

Hunger: Looks like you're busted.

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: I put the phone down, too. He was bound to find out eventually.

Hunger: In the end, who cares when you got a better friend by your side?

Hunger: Shore of Lake Wilhelm, PA.

Hunger: Sajdak. This is it. You're officially at the lowest point of your life. You're a cripple with a cane, and although the doctor says soon you won't need it, just for the virtue of having some metal below the waistline disqualifies you from any "serious" job you can imagine. And you're still approaching fifty even if that weren't the case. Does it matter? Do you really care? It's been two decades of honorable service, and it's not like you did something significant enough to be in the history books. More like two decades of doing a job that nobody else wants to. They have no interest in taking you back at Langley, even as a volunteer. Those times of spycraft and intrigue are over. It's now John versus Hajji, all over the globe. You got your medals, your pension and all the spare time you can imagine at least until next year. But in the end, you're completely alone and lame. What comes next?

DUSM Michael Sajdak: The path I've had to take hasn't been good, but it's the one I've been given. Hell if I give up and kill myself. There's gotta be something to spark life in me, however vain it may seem.

Hunger: The difference between a slave and a free man is that the free man gets to choose.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: What CAN I even do? I'm a fucked up cripple. I stare into the lake with contempt.

Hunger: Looks like you'll have to spend some more time mulling over that particular question...

Hunger: TUE 02 JUL 19 1000R.

Hunger: Druid Hill Park Entrance Plaza, Baltimore, MD.

Hunger: Not a good first impression. First meeting and they are already late, Prower. You've been reading the info board for a good ten minutes now. Alone. With no one watching you. There's supposed to be a debriefing with you and Sartore and the rest, before going dormant again to wait for the next order. It feels extremely awkward knowing that your day job boss will show up soon, but here you are. You wonder how they will react to your presence. The instructions are extremely simple. Shake hands, exchange pleasantries and go on about the rest of your day. You don't have an active mission at the moment, and it seems like Pitzerelli doesn't want them to move ahead in case they get one before getting to know you.

SA Chris K. Prower: No one watching me, how sure am I of that, really? I stomp around and look into the middle distance at lack of anything else to do.

Hunger: You see an unmarked black sedan approaching the cul-de-sac. It pours out three men.

SA Chris K. Prower: Must be our guys. Shake hands, exchange pleasantries, I approach the car to go and do that.

SA Chris K. Prower: A weird bunch of old coots, if I'm being honest.

Hunger: How frigid. Do none of them say anything back?

SDUDM George E. Jones: George is just looking this kid up and down. He seems like he's on the spectrum.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Sajdak walks up to Prower in an aggravatingly slow pace.

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: Darius gives the guy a wave but, otherwise, keeps quiet.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Who the fuck are you?"

SA Chris K. Prower: After a movement as inevitable as crashing tectonic plates meeting, I'm almost at handshake distance with this guy in the middle.

SA Chris K. Prower: "Uh, Chris. Chris Prower, DEA. ...And you are?"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Sajdak chuckles and turns to Jones.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: He takes a deep breath before turning back to Prower.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Michael Sajdak."

SA Chris K. Prower: "Sure. Well met, Michael."

SA Chris K. Prower: The handshake is expectedly awkward and a bit too forceful.

Hunger: At the last moment, you hear the rumbling sound of a speeding motorcycle.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Sajdak nods with a forced smile as he returns the handshake.

Hunger: The biker drifts to a halt.

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "What in the-?"

SDUDM George E. Jones: George turns to the motorcycle at a glacial, unworried pace.

Hunger: She takes the helmet off.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm just looking around for whomever we're expecting, not approaching them.

Hunger: It's them alright.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: That's just it. It's them. I'm checking the bike's stand is firm and leaning on it, arms crossed in wait.

SA Chris K. Prower: "Oh, come on."

SA Chris K. Prower: "Come here, join us."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'll hesitantly wrap around the other three and standing beside Prower, patting him once in the back.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "So is this the crew?"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "The sun's gonna go down by the time we make introductions."

SDUDM George E. Jones: Did we need to do anything here besides the fact of getting their names and seeing if they show up?

Hunger: You already made a one-way impression on them.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Yes. Sartore. No handshakes, please." Gloves are still on.

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "I think this is everyone."

Hunger: The original three...

Hunger: They have the scent. Faint. Like Pitzerelli.

Hunger: The new ones have the gingerbread on them.

SDUDM George E. Jones: George spits to the side then snorts. "That's them alright."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm just tilting my head at the gesture.

SDUDM George E. Jones: He looks at Darius and Sajdak. "I think we're done here. Let's get."

Hunger: Your glacial and borderline hostile get together is over. You're getting back in the car now that you're done with this charade.

Hunger: You only hope that these two can save their own asses when the time is here.

Hunger: WED 27 MAY 20 1800R.

Hunger: Francis Scott Key Bridge, Baltimore, MA.

Hunger: Prower and Cruz. Somehow, you find yourselves at the hottest protest you've ever seen in your LE careers. Although, there's a problem. It's not certain you're on which side. Are you here protesting the injustice for what happened to George Floyd, or are you enforcing the law? Every resource of American law enforcement is spread thin at these trying times, and a great portion of its members are rather unhappy with how things are going. It makes perfect sense for you to be a part of either side... Or are you here for something much more different and personal, perhaps illegal? Either choice works.

SA Chris K. Prower: Both sides in this conflict seem misguided to me, but one side is also stupid, and that hardly matters anyway since I'm here on behest of Cruz.

SA Chris K. Prower: Illegal, yes. Personal, no. It's just work, right? Cruz should really give me the details already.

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: I'm with the protesters, not being able to sit idly by after seeing what had happened.

A Crowd: "BLACK LIVES MATTER! BLACK LIVES MATTER!"

A thin man (Prower): Am I correct in assuming Cruz is also shouting that slogan?

A large man (Cruz): Absolutely.

Hunger: You are.

Hunger: The "mostly peaceful" protests are experiencing a very natural and predictable upturn in violence and pacing as protests that took too long do. It's now turning into riots and lawlessness. It's significantly worse in some places like Seattle, where there are rumors of an insurgency in making. It's unthinkable. On that matter, 9/11 was unthinkable too, and now a lot of people seem to think it never happened in the first place. Do you think they'll call this one a hoax too? They wouldn't be here to see it firsthand, unlike you. COVID is just getting started, and people seem open to the idea of it being a wholesale falsehood, despite death tolls not even reaching the projected peak. To put it simply, things are not looking great.

A thin man (Prower): Nothing wrong with it, as a statement of intent. 'Black Lives Matter'. Just as most other lives.

Hunger: "BLACK LIVES MATTER! BLACK LIVES MATTER! BLACK LIVES MATTER!""This is Baltimore PD. This is an unauthorized gathering. Return to your homes or risk being arrested under disorderly conduct. This is Baltimore PD..."JUSTICE FOR FLOYD! JUSTICE FOR FLOYD! JUSTICE FOR FLOYD!"One thing is for certain, it's pandemonium out there. The protests have been "mostly peaceful", for now some are just dancing in the back in solidarity with Floyd while the crowd pushing the front are chanting and demanding lifelong imprisonment for Derek Chauvin. The whole thing isn't expertly coordinated, but there's a lot of angry people, and that makes all the difference.

Hunger: You chant along...

A Man: You see a larger than life "protest agitator" wearing a handkerchief light a bottle on fire and begin setting up a toss. Oh shit. If you were to up and kill this guy, it would only make things worse, although the world a better place. For now you can only brace yourself for what is to come...He takes a wide swing and the bottle flies a bit ways, away from the cops to not do more damage than making them slightly warm. Thank god it wasn't a direct hit. Although, it was the sign for the riot police to move in.

A Federal Agent, geared up, male: He's waving at the rest of the line to get back.

A thin man (Prower): This is going to turn ugly in about five minutes. What reason do we have to stick around, so close to the front of the crowd, as well?

Hunger: Five minutes... How about, right now?

A large man (Cruz): I think a fucking firebomb is my cue to get the hell out of here, too.

Hunger: POPPOPOPOPOPOPOPOPO! You hear a volley of tear gas capsules being fired overhead, expertly avoiding the blockade and landing directly in front of the crowd. As expected, the "casuals" begin to run away while the "agitators" are donning gas masks and getting their sticks ready. You bet it feels so good for them right now, although they will be in the hospital later screaming for the doctor to set their bone already. The mounted police is moving in first, not patient enough to give the crowd the advantage of a semi-fair fight. But, something is wrong... Roll ALERTNESS, two of you, blind.

Hunger: Both of you are quick and trained enough to don your PBA firefighter masks you brought along. It's almost "standard issue".

Hunger: The gas won't affect you...

Mounted police horse: Thick clouds collect on the bridge, having nowhere else to be attracted to but the asphalt. Lines break, people panic and collapse. Many of the protestors are running to escape, swinging and pushing on instinct. The white haze glows orange with the flames of a car the protestors just set on fire, and blue with the police lights. It's hard to see anything on the business end of the bridge now, but as you don your gas masks you notice that one of the mounted police got thrown off his horse and they are screaming for a medic. The horse itself, on the other hand...

A Police Officer, geared up, female: "GET OUTTA THE FUCKING WAY!"

Mounted police horse: A police horse, normally well trained and removed from the front lines until its time for the charge, seems to have gotten spooked for no discernable reason. It's charging directly at the billowing tear gas cloud with an ill-fitted riot mask for horses, held together by just one strap out of four. Prower, roll DODGE, blind.

A thin man (Prower): 'Woke Culture' did this to the poor animal.

Mounted police horse: Success.

Hunger: You manage to get out of harms way, once. It stands at the edge of the smoke cloud and looks straight into your eyes, before scraping the floor with its horseshoe and breaking out into a charge towards YOU, with the car behind you. The thing is in a blind, suicidal frenzy. No need to roll a second time, you manage to dodge the thing again by jumping to the other direction but get hit in the side in the process.

Mounted police horse: It's looking straight at you.

Mounted police horse: Mounted police horse rolls Failure -> 83 (Rolling Athletics Target: 80%)

Mounted police horse: 1

Hunger: A molotov cocktail, thrown very high from inside the cloud, flies over your heads and lands directly through the side window of the police SUV. It instantly catches fire. Then, the frenzied creature smashes into it at catastrophic speed, trampling you while doing so. A brilliant blaze of glass, metal and horseflesh erupts. Soft metal and paint immediately starts dripping down its frame as the creature screams and thrashes in pain. It burns slowly and agonizingly, begging for mercy. You put a hand on your chest and feel a warmth and see a bit of red leaking from your side. Roll SANLOSS.

Mounted police horse: Condition Changes On Fire

A thin man (Prower): Condition Changes Light Bleeding

Mounted police horse: Condition Changes Prone

Hunger: You got knocked aside pretty hard. How is it that you're still standing with a tiny slash? You should have been annihilated by the power of that blow, yet here you are.

A thin man (Prower): Complete nonsense, I can't even process how this is possible in this moment.

A thin man (Prower): I would do ANYTHING to be the fuck away from this place right now. Is there any hope?

Mounted police horse: The thing is screaming out in pain in a way you never thought was possible.

Hunger: Fire engines are encroaching behind the wall of riot police.

Hunger: Both of you are trained enough to escape the scene... which you do so.

Mounted police horse: The thing slowly and painfully burns to death.

Hunger: Prower, roll blind SANLOSS.

Hunger: Parsed.

A thin man (Prower): Condition Changes Light Bleeding

Hunger: THU 18 JUL 20 1700R.

Hunger: Edward A. Garmatz United States District Courthouse, -2F, Baltimore, MA.

Hunger: George. How were you deemed an essential worker during the crisis? Is it due to the thin manpower of your day job? Did you volunteer? Did you get vaccinated or only pretended to get it? Do you wear a mask when you're not alone? Does the Program want you to be here or do they just not care? What does daily life look like? Have you been sleeping lately?

SDUDM George E. Jones: I usually have the face diaper around my chin. I eschewed the vaxx for pretense given that ordinances are all over the fucking place regarding the mandatory status or how they check for it. Essential worker? Luck of the draw. I'm senior enough that I do the work of 5 rookies.

Hunger: The break room ten meters beneath Edward A. Garmatz United States District Courthouse where you go when you're not in the office is a time capsule from the seventies, with a big, gray block in one corner to slash the delusion. It's full of wood paneling and linoleum, stained carpets and barely repaired ancient couches each still reeking from the time when you could smoke at work. The ceiling tiles are yellowed like filters of old cigarettes.

SDUDM George E. Jones: I've been watching Instagram reels into the late hours to deal with the difficulties falling asleep.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Or 'cope' with them, more like.

Hunger: You have a long way to go.

Sony Trinitron WEGA: The bulky CRT TV sticks out like a sore thumb. If it works, don't fix it personified, you have no idea if they still make the cables that connect this thing to the wall. A relic from when the world still resembled something of a smoothly running machine. The station remains tuned to a single internal broadcast network for the essential facility. It mirrors a broadcast from Fox News, but every half hour, a message from Mike Pence's COVID-19 task force plays on repeat. By HHS mandate, this message plays for all federal programs deemed essential to public health response. The short video is a canned speech thanking the workers for their service during the current crisis, supposedly written by Vice President Mike Pence but read by a female staffer into microphone, playing over a slideshow of Pence press-packet photos.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Yeeeah that fucker's getting canned.

Hunger: Who else is around of your essential coworkers? Do they wear masks? Why go to the break room at all? Do you feel like getting some alone time, or is it that you simply just can't with their presence anymore?

Sony Trinitron WEGA: A strange static afflicts the television feed as you take a seat. The public address ad plays again, outside its time slot, and gets stuck looping a few seconds of Pence ascending the stairs to a plane. A phrase repeats with the loop: "You are our heroes." Over and over again. Oddly slowed and distorted, like a dirge.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Odds and ends are around - like 1/3rd of the people I actually shoot the shit and the remainder are people I only have a passing acquaintance with. I was here to get an energy drink.

Sony Trinitron WEGA: "You are our heroes." "You are our heroes." "You are our heroes." "You are our heroes." "You are our heroes."

SDUDM George E. Jones: George will turn this bullshit off.

Hunger: Impossible. It does not turn off.

Hunger: Do you ignore it, or...

Hunger: Something about particle physics perhaps?

SDUDM George E. Jones: That's crazy. I'll be heading out of the break room and back to the almost deserted office.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Nothing particle physics related here unless...

Hunger: As you head to the exit, right after you set your foot outside of the threshold of the door, it returns to usual.

SDUDM George E. Jones: I'll have to look into that later.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Or maybe never.

Hunger: You instinctively put the foot back inside before making your mind to get out for real. It starts looping again.

Sony Trinitron WEGA: "You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes."

SDUDM George E. Jones: I step momentarily out again.

Sony Trinitron WEGA: It returns to usual programming.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Back in again.

Sony Trinitron WEGA: "You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes."

SDUDM George E. Jones: I repeat this twice.

Sony Trinitron WEGA: "You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes."

Hunger: It did the same thing.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Well, that's an empirical experiment right there. I don't think I can do much more aside from come back here when someone else is here and see if it's doing that bullshit again.

Hunger: The next day.A coworker witnesses the phenomenon, looks back at you, and immediately leaves the room without talking back.

Hunger: Your proximity triggers the loop at the same distance to the television, every time, in a perfect circle four meters around the television's receiver. It occurs no matter what you are wearing or carrying. It happens whether the TV is hooked to the wall or not. Regardless of any possible technical explanation beyond unplugging everything (which does shut the signal off), the glitch correlates perfectly to your presence.You have between one and sixteen weeks to study the phenomenon. Choose, and let us know what you do. Finally, do you tell the Program?

SDUDM George E. Jones: I keep whatever findings to myself for now and just try this with whatever variables until I can get a read on what the fuck triggers this (aside from me)

SDUDM George E. Jones: If Sajdak were here - that would be valuable.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Maybe there would be a change in the behavior.

Hunger: How long do you keep studying it?

SDUDM George E. Jones: Probably two-three weeks.

Hunger: Blind SANLOSS.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Not actively - just whenever the chance pops up.

Hunger: Sajdak's presence does the same exact thing as yours. Not one more or less thing. One fateful evening, you cut the power cable to the break room television with a knife and stay up the whole night, watching as the TV plays the glitch over and over, impossibly. "You are our heroes...You are our heroes...You are our heroes...You are our heroes...You are our heroes." By morning, as you are awakened by others arriving at work, the television has been smashed and lies broken on the floor. Your hands bleed. No one was there to see what happened.

Sony Trinitron WEGA: "You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes.""You are our heroes."

Hunger: THU 12 NOV 20 1200R.

Hunger: Pratt Street at Light Street, Inner Harbor, Baltimore, MA.

Hunger: Sartore and Sajdak. You're at a public place you're technically not supposed to be in, heading somewhere else. The trip takes place during the quarantine lockdown measures of Baltimore. Why are you out? Where are you headed? Do you simply not care and flout the law? Is there an enforced quarantine law in your area at all? Are you on some emergency errand? Are you masked to the best of your ability? Is this a date, or just a friendly thing? Do you already regret it?

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm masked. I don't know if this is a date, but I'm certainly keeping my regret private.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: I'm wearing a mask. I have no interest in women.

Hunger: You didn't come out of the closet yet, but you feel like it's a start.

Hunger: What are you thinking of? Speaking perhaps?

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "So..."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "You'd almost forget there's a quarantine."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Sajdak looks around at the people walking by, masked and unmasked.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "You know what?"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm taking the mask off and throwing it on the lawn here.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "I don't like this shit."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Nobody does. Beats dying."

Hunger: Customers pack multiple kiosks in the area that sell as-seen-on-TV junk and cheap food. The sun is shining. People walk their dogs and jog. Street performers compete for the money of passersby. A thin crowd is sitting at the nearby cafe, each one table apart. Both of you, roll Alertness OR Milsci (Land), blind.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Sajdak pulls at his mask's string, making it clear he's not taking it off.

Hunger: Sartore, you get no results. Sajdak, something is wrong. Indescribably wrong. The crowd, they do not move as an uncoordinated mass of people should. They flock as if choreographed. Designed. Something about the whole scene reeks of a design, and it surrounds you. This is a trap. And you walked straight into it.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "I really hate the East Coast."

Hunger: In the next moment, a street performer blows a piercing trumpet note. Everyone in the crowd, shoppers, kiosk workers, street performers, animals, joggers, everyone, looks at the two of you. The people begin forming well-rehearsed chorus lines as the dog walkers get the animals to perform tricks. Cameras peek up from above the roof lines of all the local buildings as everyone in the area sings "HELLO AND WELCOME BACK!" in a Disney-esque tune. The words circle, repeat, and overlap in a hypnotic drone. The street performers have gotten behind the singers now. They play a jovial ragtime tune with the rehearsed vibe of a band trained to play even while the ship goes down. Sartore, you were not expecting this. Blind SANLOSS.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Wait, shut up."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "What in the fuck-"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "What--" I'm looking around like a hare.

Hunger: Sartore. One of the confetti cannons seem to malfunction and tip over from their launching box, six tubes held together by a wire and welded at some points to stand up at a 30 degree incline.

Hunger: It fires a brilliant blast of confetti aimed directly at your face from a window, launching... something. You're smacked dead in the face by a little rat. The poor thing died at the moment of ignition. It wasn't moving so fast, so it did not knock you down, but you suspect it did... something. It slid off your face and fell on the floor very quickly.

Hunger: Hunger rolls {1d6} -> 3 (Draws a result from the Head Minor Wounds (3, 4 Dmg) table.)

Hunger: Sajdak, she is bleeding from a small line cut on her left cheek. It's barely visible, and the blood is not alarming.

Hunger: Fireworks fly and explode directly on top of you, ringing your ears a little. Small sparks land around and sing clothing.

A Woman: "HELLO AND WELCOME BACK!"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "OW!"

A Man: "HELLO AND WELCOME BACK!"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Sajdak looks around in all directions like an animal in terror.

Hunger: "HELLO AND WELCOME BACK!"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Jesus- FUCK!"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I reach for my face and look at the blood...

Hunger: "Hello and welcome back!""Hello and welcome back!!""HELLO AND WELCOME BACK!!!"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "I fucking hate the East Coast."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm walking back the way we came.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: I tug at Sartore's shirt and try to walk away.

Hunger: "HELLO AND WELCOME BACK!!!"The song reaches a terrible climax, the bystanders-turned-choral-dancers freezing in a chest-heaving final pose. This goes on for several awkward seconds until the nearby doors begin to open and scores of technical personnel for a movie or television set pour out. Grips, ADs, craft services, and lighting technicians come running from hiding like an army in ambush. This seems to surprise the actors in the crowd as much as you, but soon hidden cannons rise from the scenery and begin launching confetti overhead.

Hunger: Sajdak, as you try to do so...

Hunger: You get swarmed by a flock of technical crew.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Hey, you fuck-"

Hunger: An impromptu dance party begins. Hidden speakers play what sounds like the theme song to a cheesy reality TV show called Social Distance: The Musical.It looks like you had a second layer stripped off the Russian doll of reality today. Both of you, SANLOSS.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "LET US GO!"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "WHO THE FUCK IS IN CHARGE HERE?!" I'm looking around for someone important.

TeflonBoy: "Relaaax, honey!!"

TeflonBoy: Managing to still keep your shit together, you learn what just happened through a surprise interview, not unlike the way commentators and cameramen shove equipment in the face of a professional sports star after the big game.

TeflonBoy: The interviewer is Chad Easley-Saffron (aka TeflonBoy), an Internet content creator famed for viral prank videos, the host of this program. Sajdak, you recognize the name. You remember reading that Chad Easley-Saffron had been hired by ABC for an unnamed project just before the Covid pandemic locked down the U.S. This was to be his first work in the public eye since a scandal in 2016 after he desecrated a Cahokia burial mound on a livestream.

TeflonBoy: He gets too close to you holding on a microphone.

TeflonBoy: He sounds exactly like the man singing right now.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: I swat the microphone out of his hand.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Tilting my head, still holding my left cheek...

Hunger: Unarmed at -20%.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "What's going on? What is this?"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: DUSM Michael Sajdak rolls Success -> 24 (Rolling Unarmed Combat Target: 50%)

TeflonBoy: TeflonBoy rolls Success -> 19 (Rolling Unarmed Combat Target: 30%)

TeflonBoy: He actually dodges you at the last second, talking to a big camera pointing towards at him.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Put a mask on dipshit."

TeflonBoy: The entire area was a set up for an ABC venture called Social Distance: The Musical. The show organized Broadway actors and dancers into an elaborate "real-life musical" cast for a flash mob. The actors' need for work during the shutdown and the plummeting cost of renting public spaces reduced expenses enough to get the show greenlit. The show is shooting its first season. Episodes are made up of behind-the-scenes moments of writing and rehearsal with contrived reality-show conflicts between cast and crew. The flash mob was assembled before you arrived to be sprung on the first hapless people to walk into it. Surprising the cast as the crew rushed the "stage" was a secondary reveal, meant for the season finale. Which was just filmed.

TeflonBoy: The interviewer is Chad Easley-Saffron (aka TeflonBoy), an Internet content creator famed for viral prank videos, the host of this program. Sajdak, you recognize the name. You remember reading that Chad Easley-Saffron had been hired by ABC for an unnamed project just before the Covid pandemic locked down the U.S. This was to be his first work in the public eye since a scandal in 2016 after he desecrated a Cahokia burial mound on a livestream.

TeflonBoy: Chad Easley-Saffron wants to know what you two thought of the performance. There is nothing the show can do with the footage just captured if you do not consent to be filmed. The manipulations producers typically use to get waivers signed likely won't work on an Agent of the Program. Some parts of the footage will be suppressed by the studio in an attempt to avoid litigation, like the thing with the rat, but otherwise it's up to you...BONUS (WHY THE HELL NOT?): If you see this thing get through... one of you might experience an insane insight...

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Okay, I'm hearing him out...

TeflonBoy: "SOOO, WHAT DO YOU THIINK?!"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "About what?"

TeflonBoy: "ABOUT THE WHOLE SHOW SILLY!"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "This? I shouldn't even be here."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "I didn't watch it!"

TeflonBoy: "YOU GOT ANYTHING TO SAY TO YER FAMILLYYY??"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Sajdak stares daggers at him.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "...Eh..." I look at him, then at the camera.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "...Hi, Gigi?"

TeflonBoy: "OH AREN'T YOU A ROUGH ONE? OHHH MY!" You realize his very forced gay voice.

Hunger: Do you co-operate with the interview?

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Sure.

Hunger: Sajdak has his free will.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Well it depends on the questions asked...!

DUSM Michael Sajdak: The only reason I haven't shoved this guy and walked away is because Sartore is here.

Hunger: He's going to ask you questions about what you do (you can lie), if you got scared (you can lie) and if you agree on this being released.

Hunger: Confetti slowly pours on you.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: That's easy. I'm a DEA agent, I got spooked out of my breeches and I'm considering pressing charges (holding at my cheek), and... whatever, sure.

TeflonBoy: "Hey stop the camera for a second.""Are you serious or?" He looks nervous.

TeflonBoy: The voice went away for some reason.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "There's no way I'm finding whoever launched a rat at my face. Let's just go along, it'll heal."

TeflonBoy: "Okay then."He clears his throat."WEEEEEEEEELLL!!!"

Hunger: SUN 20 DEC 21 1200R.

Hunger: Unknown section, Ft. Belvoir, VA

Hunger: All of you arrive at Ft. Belvoir the usual way, pulling up to the parking lot and presenting yourself to the MPs at the entrance to be boarded in a blacked-out vehicle and driven to an underground garage you still don't know where is located. This time, they made you wait at the lobby for fifteen minutes until everyone was here before getting you into the van.

Hunger: Say what you think at the moment, something must be done.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Did that interview back then get released? Maybe Matt and Giorgia watched it.

Hunger: It did. Your family thinks its cringe, so do your coworkers, but they all appreciate you not very much arresting or shooting this man on the spot.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Awesome. I was on TV.

A thin man (Prower): Did any of us see the interview, just so we're clear?

Hunger: They didn't give it much thought because it just sucks. It bombed. TeflonBoy is back to streaming.

Hunger: You could have seen it.

SDUDM George E. Jones: We're trying to squeeze blood from a stone at this point and whatever imagined task we're set upon is useless unless we figure out the underlying mechanism of why this thing is happening and why it's happening to us.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He waits for all of you to take a seat.

SDUDM George E. Jones: George takes a seat despite the fact that he looks comical in any seat anywhere.

Hunger: Does anyone have it off specifically?

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm keeping it on until ordered to take it off.

SA Chris K. Prower: Prower seems to be the only person in the room who bothered to grab a cloth mask instead of the awful uncomfortable medical ones. Hoping no one pays much attention to it.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: I'm keeping it on.

A large man (Cruz): I don't see why I wouldn't be wearing one.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: This is the conference room that Pitzerelli typically holds his briefings in. You haven't seen him in months, for some of you, years. When you go out on a job on lease to other teams, they usually don't bother introducing themselves or putting you through more than a simple yes/no questionnaire after driving you around. This time is different. It's getting real.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Sorry for ruining your weekends, but it's about time you took care of a real job." His voice is dead serious, free of any the characteristic sardonics. "I'm going to cut to the chase. The phone you three recovered from that black boy five years ago was sent to Cellebrite in Israel to get it unlocked after I got the request through court. We've been monitoring the activities of a right-wing political dissident group called Gamma-DK 666 the owner seems to have been a part of ever since."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He exhales deeply, "The group isn't actually about politics. It's all just LARP. They're edgy to a new level and their jokes are disgusting but it actually seems to be some kind of cult. A group of very suicidal, armed and even trained teenagers. They are going to imminently carry out an attack." "NSA managed to pin down the location of the group admin to a small farm in rural Virginia. They did it too late. The premises were evacuated a week ago, and they left behind nothing. We identified and issued arrest warrants of 3 out of 8 members so far."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He takes the remote and turns the TV on.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "First of all, the user of the iPhone. It's a bust. YShawn probably never used this thing. It was left in his custody by an unknown third party. The password was long and complicated enough that brute forcing it would have taken until the heat death of the universe. It was part number, part syntax, part Hindu and part Chinese. Serial number was reported stolen in 2016, probably bought off of Craigslist with cash and put to work for one specific purpose. Nothing save for Telegram loaded on it joined to a single private channel. Israelis got in via backdoor. Dead end."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Secondly, their leader. Kai Owen Monroe. Only living descendant of the Monroe family, all perished in late 2016 to a freak boating accident. Never went to the computer science program in Virginia Tech he was enrolled in. Was just a few weeks past eighteen at the time, so he got all the inheritance after tax. It looks like he was the only child to a bunch of self-made hippie runaways. No uncle or aunt showing up to take their cut after finding out what happened to their dearest relatives.""He inherited a farm, around fourty heads of livestock, two trucks, six farming vehicles, an air-conditioned liquid silo, fifty thousand in cash and assets and his fathers milk business. FININT reports that almost all of it but the farm and the trucks were liquidated between 2017 and 2018, mostly transferred into crypto. We don't know where the crypto went."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Armed, crazy and rich. Nice."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "That's not it."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Lastly, we got his girlfriend. Boyfriend, actually. Alice Talley, born Bruno. Alice, Bruno, whatever you choose to call that soon-to-be-shooter freak was taken under his wing after they bonded over the incident in a Christian therapy group session. It was the only time both of them went to it, ever. Bruno was kicked out of the house in 2015 as a teenager for his homosexuality and was volun-told to attend the session by the homeless shelter in Virginia he was checked into at the time.""It seems that there was a legitimate effort to get back on the track by his side but things spiralled down fast. He mentions his boyfriend being able to procure hormone replacement therapy through gray-area channels in a steady supply, also letting him stay as a permanent guest in the now-empty farm. He took him in when he was sixteen years old, and at eighteen he began the proceedings to legally change his identity to that of a woman. State of VA had no reason to refuse. Alice never graduated high school nor ever had declared income, just has a drivers license that we gathered all this from. Other files we dug from the shelter indicates he underwent methadone therapy, although if that was succesful we do not know."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Take a look at this."He presses a button.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Right before the pandemic. It's like they had precognition that it would be the last weekend they could safely go out there and enjoy life."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He tugs at his mask.

SA Chris K. Prower: "...She passes." What a lot to take in.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "...Maybe they just went out, sir."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He scratches the bridge of his nose.

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Fuck is wrong with kids these days?"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Where are they now?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Probably loading up their guns."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He takes his glasses off and rubs his eyes, pausing for a long moment.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He puts them back on. "I know you have a lot of questions right now. Ask away."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He seems more worn out and tired than ridiculed.

SA Chris K. Prower: "That's all we know? Residences, circles, schedules, anything?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: We suspect that this is something else other than a school shooting, a ritual of some sort. The team has a quite diverse set of skills, and although it's not clear who got to train them it's within possibility that they could afford some desperate ex-military to teach them awful things. My advice would be to do whatever it takes to avoid more casualties than there should be. It will be in the same vein of a complicated terrorist attack with political motivations, except once it's over there will be no groups to blame but some crazy kids. Make sure it does not come to that.

SA Chris K. Prower: I'll just ask since it's my specialty. "Last question from me: any estimation that Gamma-666, uh, Gamma-Dee-Kay 666 is associated with any of the other presently known online militant-accelerationist nihilist... whatever you want to call it..? I'm thinking of a connection to Terrorgram, primarily."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Actually yes. But as I said, they are sidelined compared to the real motivation."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "You just made that shit up man."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "He didn't."

SA Chris K. Prower: "Real thing. Ask me later."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "I won't."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "These types of people seem to gravitate together. Although we are not at all interested in what they do as the Program. That's FBI's day job."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Most of them aren't even American citizens."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Where do we begin? Do we know where, maybe when the attack is happening? Do we have any chance of ambushing them on their way there?"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Alice is the obvious weak link."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: From what we gather an all-out attack is imminent tomorrow on Lake Braddock Secondary School in VA by the team. Both of the persons we identified have attended it, although they possibly never ran into each other there. It's fuzzy what they are going to do, but everyone with half a brain can tell that it's going to be very bloody. You're going to make sure it's contained.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: Sartore, roll Persuade. Blind.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "...Truth is, if these people did run into those you liquidated five years ago, there is a good chance they are also going to use unnatural violence on top of mundane means. To what extent we can only guess."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He seemed hesitant to make that out.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Just spit it out."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Are we dealing with the same shit if they're capable of speech?"

A large man (Cruz): "Well then we gotta stop them before they have the chance, if I never deal with anything unnatural again it'll be too soon."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He ignores your remark, you're long past the point of patronizing him in any way."We have no receipt or log of purchase but the group constantly talks about the ownership and the maintenance of the guns they possess. Some of them are illegally converted into machine guns. They seem to have used the secluded farm for training, going as far as building makeshift killhouses and practicing their throws and bomb-making skills.""Aside from the automatic weapons and explosives which they have access to by procuring the ammonium nitrate through legal channels, everything they do there is technically legal federally and in VA, no matter the pretense."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Could we cordon off the road approaches to the high school? Contact the directive staff and get them to call tomorrow's classes off?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Ho-ho-hold your fucking horses. Who said you can stop them before they do it?"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Oh."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "What else they got? B2's? Black hawks?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Real fucking funny funny guy."

SA Chris K. Prower: "Is there any reason we CAN'T stop them before they do it?"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Rich coming from someone who can't brief us properly."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "We can't call out the threat to avoid this. The whole paper trail leading back to the seizure of the iPhone is cursed. It was a gigantic misstep on our part. It went in as part of evidence to a completely unrelated national security case, and came out equally questionable. If this tracks back to the court, it tracks back to me. And if it tracks back to me, it tracks back to the Program and you. This is your fight. And when you come out of it, you're just going to be a handful of heroic federal agents who just happened to be in the vicinity with enough guns to take care of the situation. And you bet your ass I'm going to sit and watch it happen, because fuck that."He's getting a bit ruffled. You could maybe probe further.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: My eyes are just going between Pitz and Sajdak.

SDUDM George E. Jones: "So basically YOU screwed the pooch on this one."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: Jones, roll Persuade at a +20% advantage, blind.

A large man (Cruz): "You gotta be shittin' me- we're just LETTING them shoot the place up? Madness..."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Okay, fine, whatever. Why am I even hiding this from you... it's not like you have any other choice. The names of the three of you are present in the logs. The other three who died are also there, but we don't think they'll be able to differentiate behind a balaclava. They are planning to announce your names to the public and demand you move in immediately if you're not in there by fifteen minutes after they go in. It's going to be a hostage situation, and doing anything but sending you idiots in will cause avoidable civilian casualties, and possibly even a mass execution via explosive."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Do you see why now?"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Wasn't that hard now, was it?"

SA Chris K. Prower: "No, the fuck?!"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "We have a working theory that the same unidentified person responsible for planting the iPhone on the black boy is also the mastermind behind this. And it was his charisma that infected Kai first, which spread out. We have no more to expand on right now, so that's all I can say." "The timeline of the events leading up to tomorrow is extremely hazy and unclear. We're essentially looking at it through a looking glass the size of an anus, so our intelligence is beat. The little we have suggests that Kai somehow turned into an insane school shooter in a period of extreme emotional vulnerability, and here we are."

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "Why the fuck didn't you lead with that? God damnit!"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Looks like you got a hell of a situation on your hands."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Sajdak chuckles.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "You mentioned that this started five years ago, could they be trying to recreate whatever the situation was back then?"

SDUDM George E. Jones: "I've got half a mind of handing you a plate carrier and M4 and dragging you to the front lines with us given past and present history but you'd just get in the way."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "You know what, actually..."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "I'll be in a plumbers van a kilometer out the scene acting as TOC and communications node. I've never done this before, but we got an ex-SWAT officer coming in to help me out with it, and it beats having no one on the other end of the radio to talk to, right? You'll call him Bobcat. He's in the Program, but he's not read into the real meat and potatoes of this whole affair, so try not to say anything too-outlandish."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "We'll iron out the details, but you'll be given JTTF assignments to check out whatever you need from your respective armories. Additional equipment and a vehicle is already sorted out, though you do not actually get a 6th member in the team. Lie your way out, say they are a sniper or whatever, just know that it's the five of you and no more."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "The surrounding areas will be cordoned off and evacuated while we're in there, right?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "...No."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I just gulp. I'm not going to question my case officer.

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "Guess this means we just have to haul ass, then."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Police will likely respond in full swing within thirty minutes after the gunfire opens. When you're done inside, immediately go outside and surrender. They won't know that you're there, but make it abundantly clear that you're federal agents once they get you. As for them, make sure they have nothing to find, especially no suspects to arrest."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Another day of dealing with the most retarded situations with the most debilitating variables. Crazy."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Retarded? If only you had any fucking idea..."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Any zoos or barns or stables or pet stores within the vicinity, by the way?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: Another weakness. You can probe it, you think.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "I don't fucking know."

SA Chris K. Prower: "Shit, I'll bite. No suspects to arrest, so what's the story - we happened to be nearby with all our guns and gear and fancy Tom Clancy gadgets and just walked in and shot them all to death."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Yes. That's exactly it."

SA Chris K. Prower: "There... will be fancy Tom Clancy gadgets, right?"

SA Chris K. Prower: Ahem.

SDUDM George E. Jones: "What do you mean if we had any fucking idea? Did you know about this before the pressure cooker pressure became terminal?"

SA Chris K. Prower: Prower, roll Computer Science, blind.

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Kid. Please shut the fuck up."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Did you not hear it when I said we took this photo in 2019?"

SA Chris K. Prower: I am shutting up the fuck, but hesitantly.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Why are these two chucklefucks here with us?"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Nobody else?"

SDUDM George E. Jones: "You had that dude and the shemale on photo since 2019 and you decided to let them stew and NOT clip them?"

Hunger: Prower, you give it some thought. The internet is completely jam packed with the insanity of the nonsense going on after Trump came into the office. If you really put your back into it, and I mean really put your back into it, you could probably convince American people of anything at all whatsoever. Especially so with kids saved.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He's quiet.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'll ignore Sajdak's remark. "What was that about pet stores?"

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Hello? You send us like sledgehammers to torch God's green Earth yet can't spare a couple of dudes with .22s to remove two adolescents?"

Hunger: Jones, you're at the edge of something big. Roll INT, blind.

Hunger: As much as you're studying what's happening to you, these people are also doing the exact same thing. This could, possibly, be the biggest experiment they have ever attempted. With innocent lives in the mix.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Maybe the first cleanup crew got removed instead."

Hunger: With that being said... SANLOSS.

Hunger: Parsed.

SDUDM George E. Jones: George slumps back and locks his hands behind his head. "You're letting these chucklefucks play Unit 731 to see what happens, huh?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "The phone itself is above your access level, but I can throw you a bone."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "They think they are bringing on the apocalypse. They call it "The Sharpening." Once they sharpen you enough the world will end. Is that clear enough?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: Rhetorical question.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "I'm rusty on the whole myth part of the deal but it seems like they are up to... how do I say it... schism-esque type of deal with the whole thing regarding Bast. They seem to disagree on what happened to the Quiet Children. Which is interesting in itself, given how much they know about them. They are unalarmed to the multi year long silence of the user on the iPhone, so maybe there is someone acting as a man in the middle. What's certain is that they think they are going to fix everyone and everything by doing this, and they will not stop."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "If these chucklefucks genuinely think they're in control they've got another thing coming."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "I'm sorry, are the building plans available online? And how many students are we expecting to be on site?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "I've already told you way too much. Any other questions?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "...Class will be in order. I have the blueprints."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He presses the remote.

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Are any assemblies planned?"

SDUDM George E. Jones: "For the school, I mean."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Nothing special for that day."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Right."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Can we plant home surveillance cameras during the off-hours and link their feeds to our phones?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "No. No entering the op grid before I tell you to."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I nod slowly.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "What says they don't just rig the place with explosives and blow it up the second its clear they're getting shot dead?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "...That's for you to find out."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Why would they? The 'holy ghost' will make sure whatever that will happen happens for as long as it possibly can."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "He's got a point, you know."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "We're kneecapped and forced to play along with the script AGAIN."

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "I hope you're right, I'm hardly a bomb defusal expert."

SA Chris K. Prower: "They want to, 'Sharpen' us, you said. Us specifically? And a mass shooting accomplishes this, how?"

Hunger: As soon as you said that...

Hunger: Cruz, Sajdak, Jones. You realize that the other 2 no longer have the scent on them.

SA Chris K. Prower: "Here's fingers crossed it's more of a ritualistic thing and these freaks blow their own heads off as soon as we're on the scene."

Hunger: Prower, Sartore. You feel an odd scent coming from Pitzerelli. It's extremely faint...

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Kid, shut up."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Get the fuck outta here. This can't be happening.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm just looking at Pitzerelli.

Hunger: Sartore: he smells like fresh ocean wind mixed in with scents of delicious African cuisine. Then, it slowly grows into something hellish. Rotting and churning.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "I can't help but think we're helping them by delivering the three ingredients to their little party."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "I mean, how can they sharpen us if we don't show up?"

SA Chris K. Prower: Ugly fuck. Will no one ever call out this awful BO?

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I cough, trying to mask the disgust.

Hunger: Prower: he smells like the warm certainty of a nice office environment. The one you're so familiar to, have been so familiar to all your life before you decided to become a man in black. Coffee, with room freshener, breakfast brunch scent coming from the other room.

SDUDM George E. Jones: George turns his head towards Sartore like an owl: "What's happening?"

Hunger: Then it turns into violent death and rot.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Sajdak looks at Jones, then follows his gaze towards Sartore.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "..."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He's just observing you.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Scared already?"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Nothing-- might be a flu. Don't worry, I got three doses."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli rolls Success -> 59 (Rolling HUMINT Target: 70%)

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Everything alright?"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Can I roll myself to hide the signs?

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: No, you're caught naked.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: There's no walking out of this.

SDUDM George E. Jones: George takes out a pocketbook from his suit and notes something down.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'll just silently nod.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He clears his throat.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Is that it?"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I just need to get out of here to hide my abject horror.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Actually, I'm just standing up and stepping outside.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Where the hell are you going?"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Restroom-- sorry!" I'm leaving the same way he did back then.

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Yeeeah that's about it," he clears his throat, "Until you owe me more info when you inevitably fuck up and put us in the line of fire again,"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Fucking hell Pitz. This is the crew you give us?"

SA Chris K. Prower: I follow Sartore getting up to leave with my eyes. So obviously unnatural. She must have smelt this, too.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He taps his pen on the table once and puts it back in his pocket.

SA Chris K. Prower: "Women, am I right?"

SA Chris K. Prower: "Ahem."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "What the fuck is this?"

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "I was about to ask the same question..."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "You fuckfucks at the program are ten steps behind is what it is."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Care to elaborate on that Georgey?"

SDUDM George E. Jones: "On everything. Just a reactionary leviathan swimming towards whatever chum it caught scent of in the moment."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "..."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "For an organization so embedded in Law Enforcement and intelligence agencies your predictive capabilities are laughable."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Every agency and we basically get five minutes notice on this shit?"

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Or are you doing this on purpose?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "..."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "This conversation is over."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He slides you a briefing folder.

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Hole in one. Whatever, man."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Good. If that will be all, you have..."He checks his expensive-looking watch."About 23 hours before the shooting. You need to rest, deal with the check-outs and then set your affairs in order."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Alright."

SDUDM George E. Jones: George grabs the folder and gives it a cursory read before stuffing it in his suit. "I'll give you the rundown when we're outta here."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli rolls Success -> 50 (Rolling INT Target: 75%)

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Sajdak stares at the photo of Alice and Kai with dead eyes.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He decides against saying anything.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: With that, the attorney gracefully leaves the room with his briefcase. Two MPs waiting outside come in to lead you out back to the blacked-out van...

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Fuck that fat fuck," George says to Cruz and Sajdak as Pitz is out of earshot.

Hunger: Delta Green - God's Teeth - They Wanted Peace

Hunger: Session 1 END.

Hunger: Thanks for playing!

God's Teeth - They Wanted Peace Session 2

July 18, 2026

Hunger: Delta Green - God's Teeth - They Wanted Peace

Hunger: MON 21 DEC 21 1120R.

Hunger: Burke Lake Rd., VA.

Hunger: You departed the garage at Ft. Belvoir after gearing up at 1045R. You're twenty minutes to the observation point. What is going on through your minds as you realize this may be your last day alive?

SDUDM George E. Jones: If things don't work out I'm running out and magdumping on that fucking ice cream van or whatever it is Pitzarelli is sitting in.

SA Chris K. Prower: That I never really thought I'd be going out like this. Like a commando or something. Fuck, what am I doing here?

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm frightened out of my head and can't do anything other than fixate on the task at hand right now.

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: I need to get this shit done, quick, so I can score some fent afterwards. No sense in sticking around.

Hunger: Very valid reactions. Jones, he said he'd be a kilometer out. Big, big "if" for you.

SA Chris K. Prower: I feel like I'm in Sicario, the movie.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: I'd be confident in our ability to succeed if it wasn't for Pitzrelli and the whole 'lab rat' angle to this. I'm keeping a very fucking close eye on him in case he pulls something that'll get us in trouble or get innocents killed.

Hunger: Any last minute things to address before parking?

Hunger: ...That looks like a no.

Hunger: Preloading next scene, switch in 5 seconds.

Hunger: You arrive to the observation point and drive through the broke-open fence gate. Where you are you're both hidden from the road and have a direct, albeit limited line of sight at the schools front side. You reckon you don't have much time left to waste.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Awfully quiet today."

Hunger: He speaks over the comms.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "What's the problem?"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Oh shut up you smug prick."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm just looking at Sajdak as he barks back.

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Let's keep it professional before I change my MO to finding you and ventilating your skull."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Heyyy.... relax."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "I got my friend here with me."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Now give us the rundown or keep the channel clear."

SA Chris K. Prower: "I'm going to fly the drone up. Going to get a bird's eye view on all of this."

Hunger: "Hey."An unknown male voice, gruffy.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: How much reconnoitering do we have time for? I wanna get a gauge on this place since I was thinking about entering from up above.

Hunger: Chris, roll a blind LUCK d100.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: ...If there's any way up there.

Hunger: For reconnaissance, you have your bare ass and a cheap monocular.

Hunger: Chris...

Hunger: You get out and put the drone together after taking it and the batteries out the carrying case.

Hunger: ...One of the rotors are not working.

SA Chris K. Prower: Fuck. Can I diagnose the issue?

Hunger: Roll the relevant skill.

SDUDM George E. Jones: While he is doing that shit we can already get the hustle on.

SA Chris K. Prower: Which would it be, of the three? I don't know what sort of issue it is yet.

Hunger: Of course. You begin checking your gear. You'll be able to go as soon as you get the signal.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I want to check that my firearms are working correctly with a bit of clearing the chamber and dry firing them (unloaded) repeatedly.

SA Chris K. Prower: ...Roll Microelectronics, then.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Or we can just beat them to it and shoot them to shit off rip, y'know...

SA Chris K. Prower: SA Chris K. Prower rolls CRITICAL SUCCESS! -> 22 (Rolling Craft (Microelectronics) Target: 40%)

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "If we hear gunshots and they don't let us go we're going anyway."

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "No shit."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "We should be going now," George says to Sajdak.

Hunger: Luckily you have your laptop with you today. You run the troubleshooting software on it and fix the problem immediately. It was just on redundancy fallback because it detected a problem that may or may not (it doesn't) exist.

Hunger: You can begin flying.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Just getting us on the level. I don't know what the fuck these guys are playing at."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "I don't think you should."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: CAN I CHECK MY GUNS?

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: I'm gearing up whilst I still can..

DUSM Michael Sajdak: What the fuck? Are we bugged?

SA Chris K. Prower: I fly the drone up into the air, higher, higher, then towards the school.

Hunger: You are in the progress of checking your gear and unlike Prower's misfortune none of you have bolt groups or thermal cameras falling off. Relax.

SDUDM George E. Jones: No, the comms just can't be turned off. Mic off doesn't exist other than tossing that shit in a gutter and stomping on it.

DJI Mavic 3: You quickly fly over to the school. What are you doing here?

SDUDM George E. Jones: I presumed that was the case.

SA Chris K. Prower: Looking at the parking lot. Are there any cars moving?

DJI Mavic 3: Roll Piloting.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Check for a way up."

SA Chris K. Prower: SA Chris K. Prower rolls Failure -> 56 (Rolling Pilot (Drones) Target: 40%)

DJI Mavic 3: You can tell that the front and side parking lots are idle.

DJI Mavic 3: The drone hums quietly in the distance, still within hearing range.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Check for... uh... parked vans." I'm keeping my teeth from clattering.

SA Chris K. Prower: "There's tons of those..." I look anyway.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Did you not hear me?"

SA Chris K. Prower: "A way up? I mean, we might be able to just climb up that hill..."

SA Chris K. Prower: "Do you mean a safe way up?"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Onto the roof, Prower... other than rappel."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "I'm talking about getting on the roof or second floor or something 'cause there's a big ass killing floor in the canteen they're gonna set up on."

Hunger: Prower, blind ALERTNESS.

SA Chris K. Prower: "Oh, the building..." Do I see any ladders to access the roof?

Hunger: After a bit of distracted flying due to the barking at your ears you realize that there are no external ascents or descents which makes sense because if a teenager saw that it would only be a matter of minutes before injuring himself.

SA Chris K. Prower: "Yeah... I don't see anything."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Alright, whatever. We'll see where they go in - if they're not in already - but the plan's that we go in from the top-left and head for the stairs."

SA Chris K. Prower: "There's no ladders or anything like that. If you want to get on the roof, you're gonna need a way to climb up." He pauses for a second. "...The drone can't lift you."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "Just park it out of hearing range... high enough to get a visual on the back and front roads...?"

Hunger: Prower.

Hunger: Roll blind ALERTNESS at a +20% again and pray you succeed it.

DJI Mavic 3: You notice that the back entrance to the gym, which was open just now, is closed.

DJI Mavic 3: ...With a big red X spray painted on it.

SA Chris K. Prower: "Hey, I see something..." What side of the building is that on?

DJI Mavic 3: Back.

SA Chris K. Prower: "There's... That has to be them, someone shut a door and spray-painted an X on it."

SA Chris K. Prower: "We need to move."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Nope."

Hunger: As soon as you say that...

SA Chris K. Prower: "I think they're already inside."

Hunger: A familiar tune begins playing on your comms.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Who the fuck-"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Is this a joke?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Turn it off!"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "You planning on holding us up, Pitzrelli?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "What the fuck is going on?!"

SDUDM George E. Jones: Jones pulls back the charging handle. "It's happening."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Because we'll have our alibi real soon."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm closing my eyes and leaning my head back on the headrest. We have our gear on by now, right?

DJI Mavic 3: Prower.

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "If this shit doesn't get turned off I'm throwing my damn comms away- What the FUCK"

DJI Mavic 3: A man just exited the roof hatch.

Badger: Badger rolls Failure -> 67 (Rolling Alertness Target: 50%)

Badger: He looks around for a moment... before realizing the drone.

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Greenlight it, you lump, they're here."

Badger: He looks at the drone for a couple seconds before letting go of his gun. Instead, he gets on his knees... and begins signalling with his body?

SA Chris K. Prower: "There's someone on the roof!"

SA Chris K. Prower: "He's wearing a mask, what's he..."

Hunger: Shots.

Badger: You hover looking at him for a bit more, stunned.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Pitz's guys are fucking morons, I'm getting out of the car and signalling the others to come with.

ASAC Darius J. Cruz: "That's our cue, if ever there was one."

SA Chris K. Prower: I relay the signals to the team.

Hunger: Not just shots AND explosions.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "GO GO GO!"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: With mask on.

Badger: Tired of your antics, he immediately goes for his gun and starts aiming at the drone.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Thank you."

Badger: Condition Changes Aiming

SDUDM George E. Jones: "No shit you fat fuckin' sack!" George masks up and rushes out the van.

SA Chris K. Prower: "I think they're going to FLANK US!"

Hunger: Prower, he is aiming a G3 copy straight into your eyeball through the VR goggles.

SA Chris K. Prower: "Watch the forest, they might still have team members in the forest!"

SA Chris K. Prower: I dive the drone away from the school and back towards me

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I guess no one's got balls big enough to call for a direct drive to class 101. Whatever-- I'm ready.

Hunger: Roll Piloting. On anything but a critical success after your babbling, he has a chance to hit.

SA Chris K. Prower: SA Chris K. Prower rolls Success -> 32 (Rolling Pilot (Drones) Target: 40%)

Hunger: The rest of the team begins sprinting.

Badger: Aim & bodypart: Aimed, no bodypart. Attachments: Medium-long range attachments. Fire rate & range: Short range, single shot. Speed & size: ≤ Normal, regular.

Badger: Badger rolls Success -> 18 (Rolling Firearms Target: 40%)

Badger: ... He hits!! Even if we considered a -20% to your fast speed.

Badger: On a 6 or above, you're down.

Badger: 10

Hunger: The drone explodes and falls from the sky in a hunk of plastic scrap.

Badger: Condition Changes Aiming

SA Chris K. Prower: Prower rips the headset off. "Fuck."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Into the battle rifle shooter's field of fire we go, I think to myself. It was nice living.

Hunger: You begin moving in.

Hunger: Do you take the planned path?

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Yes.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: WHAT IS THAT?

Hunger: Halfway there... the gunshots and explosions abruptly stop...

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Are we taking the front entrance or 101? Can Sajdak specify?

Hunger: From this distance you can hear the bell alarm.

Hunger: Are you taking the front door?

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Is there a door?

Hunger: I'm sorry, that wouldn't be the front door.

Hunger: Sajdak.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Windows we can break through.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: What are we looking at.

Hunger: Since you already made headway regarding what's going on, you have one chance at an INT roll to get a crucial hint. Blind.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: DUSM Michael Sajdak rolls Success -> 37 (Rolling INT Target: 80%)

Badger: Condition Changes Prone Aiming

Badger: You realize that he is holding fire.

Badger: He could have killed all of you several times from this getup.

Badger: He wants you up front, not to the sides or the back.

Badger: As suicidal the plan is, it seems to be working as far as you're concerned?

DUSM Michael Sajdak: I already figured we were gonna be left alone, but what, does that leave us with no choice but to go where he wants us? I don't suppose we can really fight him from here.

Hunger: ...If you tried really, really hard. But there is no cover, and going prone will NOT help you due to his 3-story elevation advantage.

SA Chris K. Prower: If we start shooting at him, he'll start shooting back, and he has a really advantageous position.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: So we're basically forced to walk right into their bullshit just like '16, awesome.

A woman (Sartore): It's too late to make that call, the only way to choose our entry point was by fucking Pitzerelli and driving the car right in here.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "We're going through the front."

Hunger: I don't know, Sartore.

Hunger: Wanna find out?

SDUDM George E. Jones: George has the premonition that the guns and the kit are useless and they'd have a better chance if they waltzed in with knives and fists.

Hunger: Maybe, maybe not. He can not possibly be alone, you heard multiple distinct gunshots and explosions.

Hunger: If you're not gonna do anything specific all of you are approaching up front.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: We clearly have no choice about the matter so yes we're going in through the reception.

A large man (Cruz): Unless anyone here can run faster than they can shoot, I think we kinda have to walk through the front.

Hunger: With that in mind, do you remember ever really having a choice...

Hunger: Preloading next scene, switch in 30 seconds.

Hunger: MON 21 DEC 21 1212R.

Hunger: You're closed in. You're walking past the cars in the parking lot and you can see the knob on the front door now (about 50 meters out).

Hunger: Badger is still holding fire.

SA Chris K. Prower: How close are we to the freak on the roof?

Hunger: ...Pistol distance.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: I'm the person who made this call so I'm gonna take responsibility for it and take point.

Hunger: He still has the bead on you, though.

Hunger: He will almost certainly shoot before you, at an advantage, if you choose to do it NOW.

A woman (Sartore): Are we literally looking at his masked face if we look up right now?

Hunger: YES!

SDUDM George E. Jones: George looks straight at badgerman. Do I smell gingerbread from here?

DUSM Michael Sajdak: I'm opening the door.

Hunger: He is wearing a badger mask.

Hunger: Sajdak.

Hunger: Not before setting your states and turning on your flashlight.

Hunger: Let's proceed. Prower takes the rear.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Do any of us smell gingerbread right now?

Hunger: From the outside, Lake Braddock Secondary School is a typical American public secondary school. The building is broad and low, stretching horizontally rather than rising vertically. It is primarily constructed from reddish-brown brick with light-colored concrete accents around entrances and windows. The main entrance faces a circular driveway used for student drop-off and buses. Wide concrete walkways lead from the parking areas to the main entrance. Large windows line much of the front. Athletic facilities make up a huge part of the campus. Although it's not a sports academy, it still has one of the most extensive athletic programs among public schools in Virginia. There are two back entrances directly into the large closed gym. In front of the school are landscaped islands with grass, shrubs, mature trees, and a prominent bear statue representing the school's Bruin mascot. The campus has expansive parking lots around the building. The campus is covered from all sides with residential buildings.

Hunger: As for the smell- YES!

Hunger: All of you can sense OVERWHELMING stench coming from inside. Now that the endorphine of the run is stabilizing you, it's becoming clearer.

Hunger: The door is not opening itself.

Hunger: You throw the doors open. No targets.

Hunger: You can move in.

Hunger: CRUZ, SAJDAK, ALERTNESS.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: DUSM Michael Sajdak rolls Success -> 50 (Rolling Alertness Target: 50%)

A large man (Cruz): A large man (Cruz) rolls Failure -> 93 (Rolling Alertness Target: 50%)

Hunger: Sajdak, you just walked past what appears to be a trashbag left on the floor. Besides that, there's a glimmer of a length of fishing rope on your lights.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: I'll nudge it open with my foot a little.

Hunger: Lit up by natural and fluorescent lights, the winding corridors don't present much more than a sterile white setting. The warmth of sports-forward schools that are celebrated through medals and cups do not litter the place. Now it's just COVID precaution posters. One could say that the renovations killed the soul that was once here. Now, they are sleek with blood.

Hunger: The screech of the PA system claws at your ears. SKREEEEE-Two soft taps on the microphone.

Hunger: Nothing- Sartore.

Hunger: "Welcome, brothers. It is a joy to know that we are indeed intertwined by fate."He sounds like a young white boy with a bit of a vocal fry. He seems to be calm and composed."Have everyone enter through the main entrance and close the door behind you. Stay where you are, you don't want to run past the tripwire just yet."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Can you hear us?"

A woman (Sartore): "This is bullshit..." I say, thinking of Pitzerelli.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Shut up."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Do what he says."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "You shut up too."

Hunger: There is indeed some kind of tripwire activated explosive device planted at the lockers next to the entrance. If you hadn't seen that it would have done some... serious damage."Take hook off the trigger. It would be the opposite of a climax to kill you here and now."You may do so with no roll.

SA Chris K. Prower: I'll do it.

Hunger: You grab the small plate inserted into a wall mount fastened by two shiny new nails (possibly out of a nail gun) and disarm the explosive. It was effortless."Good. Now get the trashbag you just ignored and put your hand in it. Take one of the masks."There is indeed a black trashbag perked up next to the entrance you just walked through. Unless you explicitly refuse to do so, TABLE throws a BLIND D6 to stick a hand inside and pull out a mask.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: We're doing that.

SA Chris K. Prower: What are the masks inside it?

A large man (Cruz): Fuck it, I'm grabbing a mask too.

Hunger: Go ahead, I need a quick pee break. BLIND D6!!!

SDUDM George E. Jones: George, for a second, wanted to rush straight into the tripwire to end this retarded situation of him being ordered around by the dollar store trenchcoat mafia once and for all.

Hunger: Prower, do you refuse?

Hunger: I don't see yours

SA Chris K. Prower: I want to know what I'm putting on.

SA Chris K. Prower: What sort of mask is it?

Hunger: CRUZ: A fish - Find the criminal. Classes 101-103.SAJDAK: A rotweiller. - Punish the molester. Locker rooms.PROWER: A horse - Lay the grandma to rest. Class 201.SARTORE: A rat - Prevent the suicide. Mess hall.JONES: An alligator - Seek the quiet children. Library. There is one more mask resembling a cat, stylized in Egyptian motifs and decorated with an ankh - Raise the chorus. Music room.

A woman (Sartore): Do these fit under the helmets?

Hunger: Yes. If you squeeze them tight enough.

Hunger: You all get a look at each other.

SA Chris K. Prower: "...Are you seriously putting this shit on?"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Yes."

Alligator: "This feels like a SAW movie bootleg. Let's go to where we have to go."

Fish: "It's o-fish-al, we're all wearing this shit."

Hunger: "Looks like number six is being a bit shy. I get it. We'll just save it for the ending. It would be convenient. Not like they have any other choice... Leave that one in the bag for them." He giggles.

Alligator: "And for the record - we're doing trials for these fucks, Pitzarelli. You cool with that?"

Hunger: The other end of the radio is silent.

Rottweiler: "Just shut up and go with it."

Hunger: "Almost everyone is in the gym. Most of them are safe minus the ingrates who did not appreciate our non-violent methods."

Alligator: "That's what I motherfucking thought."

Hunger: "If you try to enter any of the doors spraypainted with an X, we'll consider it a mistake. If you fail your task, we'll consider it a mistake. Every mistake will cost you in blood. We're going to execute an increasing odd number of hostages. Three, five, seven, so on and so forth."

Hunger: "If a task is not completed every five minutes, we'll consider it a mistake. If SWAT enters the building or if you break into the gym before all tasks are completed, we'll have to end our little meeting with a big boom."

Hunger: "Likewise, on your fourth mistake we are going to detonate the bombs and kill everyone inside."

Hunger: "If you have any questions... well... let's just say that I might hear your cries of pain through the microphones we left at your tasks."

Hunger: "Good luck, and don't forget to breathe."... The PA system goes silent.

Horse: "...They have everyone. Everyone in the school. They have them already. That's why they stopped shooting."

Rat: "No shit."

Fish: "I don't get paid enough to deal with this shit..."

Horse: Prower puts the mask on under his helmet.

Hunger: You can toggle your combat states again.

Alligator: George looks at Sajdak and says in a muffled voice through the gator mask: "You might have to weight the costs and benefits of blowing everyone up versus going through with this shit. I know I am."

Rottweiler: I'm going to the lockers ASAP rather than wasting precious time with small talk.

Hunger: George: your secondary is your shield.

Hunger: Immediately you notice how QUIET the place is for the scene of an in-progress shooting. You hear nothing but the gentle blowing of wind through the hallways. Blood leaks through some of the doors nearby, and they don't seem spraypainted. What's more interesting is that none of the freaks decided to jump you right here and kill all of you at once yet. In fact, where are they? And what are these empty canisters littering the place?—We are going to move together in groups and act independently when players decide to "do a task". You are meant to do them alone, given what he just said, but you can interfere with them. Once you reach a door and decide to enter it, time will freeze for others. For now, you're out of the combat carousel, as there is no combat.

Alligator: It's on my back for now.

Hunger: Right. Let's get moving.

Alligator: George is heading to the library to find the kids.

Hunger: Before that, anyone going with him?

Horse: No. I'm going alone to 201.

Hunger: 201 is down the same road. You two can move to Z2 immediately.

Hunger: Anyone else?

Fish: I need to find class 101 myself, too..

Hunger: 101 is right down the hallway. You can see the nameplate.

Rat: "Fuck." I'm just walking down the hall to the mess hall.

Horse: Where is 201?

Hunger: We are going to handle Prower and Jones first as they are most up ahead.

Hunger: You two move up, slowly, you'll see a staircase soon.

Hunger: Jones?

Hunger: You walk past the toilets on your way.

Hunger: It doesn't look like much of a struggle happened in the bathrooms. Perhaps the students had the idea to wait for help beneath the skylight instead of locking themselves in here. All the doors and stalls are thrown open, and left as they are.

Hunger: Heavy amounts of blood is leaking beneath the cafeteria door.

Hunger: Continue.

Alligator: says game paused for me

Hunger: We're parking you two here for now.

Hunger: Reminder that the ruler beneath the token lets you see everyone else.

Hunger: Thoughts rush past your mind as you realize what you just agreed to do...

Hunger: Now, for the remaining three...

Hunger: Who goes first?

Rottweiler: I'm going straight to the lockers.

Hunger: Locker room is down the hall, right, down again, right again and all the way ahead.

Hunger: Move.

Hunger: More blood is leaking beneath 103.

Hunger: You're looking at the gym doors.

Hunger: They are painted.

Rottweiler: Yep.

Hunger: You arrive at the locker rooms, we're going to see what the other 2 did.

Hunger: Act.

Fish: 101 is dead ahead, right?

Hunger: Yes.

Hunger: Move.

Fish: Then I haul ass.

Hunger: Sartore, I heard you say something about the teacher's lounge and the offices.

Hunger: Are you heading dead into the cafeteria?

Rat: Let me peek the lounge then swing around for a quick check of the offices first.

Hunger: Let's do it.

Hunger: The door to the teachers lounge is kicked open, with the frame giving way to the metal of the lock in splinters. Two were killed in what looks like attempted self defense, while the others went out much cleaner.

Hunger: A trail of blood is coming out of the toilets. A headless male is splayed across the floor in front of the toilet bowl, with a huge puddle of blood behind and beneath him.

Rat: "Fuck."

Hunger: Cruz, hold.

Rat: It's useless asking how long ago it appears these people died, or trying to use my forensics knowledge to piece it out. It's obvious they were irrelevant to whatever these guys are planning out.

Hunger: It's useless rolling- the blood is still bright red. Mere minutes ago.

Rat: I'm holding my breath for as long as I'm in here as I check the rest of the corners.

Hunger: No one is really here.

Hunger: All the doors are thrown open.

Rat: I'm hating this. To the offices.

Hunger: Straight ahead of you.

Rat: I'll step over the corpse, trying my best not to disturb it...

Rat: Poor fucking people.

Hunger: The offices are broken into. A female lays dead, shot several times in the main corridor. The other doors are also kicked in.

Rat: "The hell?"

Rat: Secretary's desk, right?

Hunger: The principal is dead to a single gunshot to the forehead. He was seated as this was happening, possibly trying to negotiate like a fool with the attackers. The deputy principal and the counsellor are also dead in the deputy principals room. This too looks like some attempt at self defense was made.

Rat: Dammit. If there were any cameras, this is where they'd control them, I guess?

Rat: And the PA system?

Hunger: Good call. Roll ALERTNESS.

Rat: So where the hell are they?

Rat: Rat rolls Success -> 8 (Rolling Alertness Target: 50%)

Hunger: You notice a strange rectangle of dust and soot on the ground, and many ripped wires.

Hunger: They took it, the computer tower, whatever else.

Rat: Guess that's that...

Rat: I'm going to disturb the corpse... reluctantly... to look for keys or whatever.

Hunger: You saw one more door behind you.

Hunger: You run his pockets for keys... You do find a keyring but it's not exactly labelled.

Hunger: Bundle of keys.

Hunger: Good luck.

Hunger: Are you opening that door?

Rat: I nod to myself and pocketing it.

Hunger: The door to the nurses office seems to be stuck. It's heavily shot through, and its dark on the other end.

Hunger: It says "NURSE".

Rat: Should be easy to kick open. I'll shine the light around the hinges where visible just in case they somehow... yeah.

Hunger: You manage to get the door open. The woman here is turned into collander from the volume of gunfire that went through. They didn't have the patience to get her to open the door, it looks like.

Hunger: No one waiting in ambush.

Hunger: Are you headed to the cafeteria?

Rat: I shake my head. Yes.

Hunger: Cruz.

Hunger: "Delta Green has found a criminal working right beneath our noses. They have no more information on them other than they are thought to be left-handed. Find and eliminate them before they hurt more innocents."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "WHAAT?!!" All of you hear Pitzerelli screaming into the microphone over your headsets.

Fish: "How the fuck am I supposed to work with this?"

Hunger: Cruz, the note says that the "criminal" is hiding in one of the three classrooms standing before you. How do you figure they are left-handed is up to you.

Fish: I just gotta find someone holding something with their left hand, or something... This is bullshit.

Hunger: You may move.

Fish: I'm just going to open this door and hope to god I don't get turned into a red mist the moment I do.

Hunger: Three females lay on the ground, with execution shots to the forehead on each of them. Some stragglers who fought back were killed and later ignored. An evacuation was attempted, from the looks of the scattered books and bags.

Fish: How lovely. Is there anything else I can see from out here?

Hunger: Just the rear parking lot.

Hunger: You really don't have much time.

Fish: 102 it is, then.

Hunger: Three males were lined up against the blackboard and shot execution style, splattering red over dark green. Some were killed instantly when the attackers gained entrance to the classroom. More signs of an evacuation with all the scatter. A boy sitting at the back has a large gash across his throat.

Fish: Anything of note?

Fish: Can I see behind the desks?

Hunger: You realize that the curtains are pulled.

Hunger: The desks- too many of them to search.

Hunger: Maybe you should see 103.

Fish: I suppose that's the best call.

Hunger: It looks like the heaviest of resistance took place here. Two scorch marks dot the scene. Blood splattered everywhere, those who survived for a minute longer having bled out into puddles on the floor. Limbs are strewn across the floor and the desks. Some of the bodies are charred. Some of them were finished execution-style. It's totally annihilated.

Hunger: The curtains aren't drawn.

Fish: I'll check 102 again, there's probably someone hiding behind the curtains.

Fish: That's my only guess, anyways...

Hunger: Perhaps.

Hunger: As you let the light in...

Emily Carter: A woman flops out behind the curtains.

Emily Carter: Condition Changes Unconscious

Emily Carter: She doesn't seem to be awake, but she's definitely breathing.

Fish: I'll check behind the other curtain, before doing anything hasty.

Hunger: Zzzipp....

Hunger: There's a small home-use WiFi camera and a wireless microphone waiting for you.

Hunger: The lights are on on both.

Fish: I'll grab the camera, I guess?

Hunger: Nothing happens. It's still on.

Fish: Fuck it, I'm going back to her. I haven't seen anyone else thus far, I'll assume she's the "criminal" from earlier.

Hunger: Roll ALERTNESS.

Fish: Fish rolls CRITICAL FAILURE! -> 66 (Rolling Alertness Target: 50%)

Hunger: "...Stop looking at her like you don't know what to do."

Hunger: The PA system roars to life.

Fish: I'll shoot her, before wasting any more time.

Emily Carter: Condition Changes Dead

Emily Carter: Cold. She dies, after taking one in the forehead.

Hunger: SANLOSS. Blind.

Hunger: ...Parsed. You still have the microphone nearby, if you'd please.

Fish: I'm not giving these guys the satisfaction.

Hunger: Perhaps, but you could give them some questions instead.

Fish: Trueee...

Alligator: Or give them answers they wouldn't like to hear.

Fish: "...Why?"

Hunger: "It must be done. This joke we call existence must collapse."

Hunger: "It's the same reason as yours. The same reason as anyone who is awake."

Hunger: "You know it just as well as we do, even if you might pretend to not."

Fish: And this is why I don't bother questioning these people.

Fish: I take my leave.

Hunger: "I liked it. You're cold. You're well sharpened."

Hunger: "Good luck."

Hunger: You may act freely the next time- you've finished your task.

Hunger: Sajdak.

Hunger: You just heard a gunshot from 101.

Rottweiler: I'm going to pray that wasn't the satanists killing someone in the gym and focus on the task at hand.

Hunger: "A disgusting creep takes advantage of innocent children in his hiding hole. Find him and teach him a lesson he will never forget. Watch out: he has trapped the wrong door."

Hunger: A narrow corridor opens up to the locker rooms, connected to the gym and the maintenance staircase that goes above. It says "STAFF ONLY" on the door at the other end. It diverts mid-way to two doors. "BOYS" and "GIRLS". The question is: girls or boys?

Rottweiler: I'm guessing I have no hints at all other than what I just heard? Nothing on the doors or anything? I'm gonna give them a once-over and presuming there's nothing to look at I'll take the girls locker since it's at least probable said creep is a straight male.

Hunger: Open?

Alligator: You have an optiwand.

Rottweiler: True!

Rottweiler: I'll use that first.

Hunger: I'll allow that mind zap- it literally is weighing you down as we speak.

Hunger: You shove the optiwand down this door. Roll Search

Hunger: Success.

Hunger: A directional explosive is waiting you behind this one.

Hunger: It's rather large.

Rottweiler: Then I turn straight for the other room.

Hunger: Come to think of it... is this some kind of non-sequitur or a part of the ritual?

Hunger: A creep..? Isn't that too ubiquitous?

Hunger: Anyway. You open the door.

Hunger: Your nostrils are assaulted with the iron smell.

Hunger: Someone is dead here. That much you can instantly tell.

Rottweiler: Gonna guess I can't see anyone anywhere obvious. What am I looking at in here?

Hunger: The air is sleek with damp and aerosolized fresh blood. Nothing seems extraordinary, until you round the corner and find a bald man naked and tied to the chair very tightly. Across him are a pile of dead teenage girls, each looking back at you with empty eyes, dead to a clean execution shot to the forehead. They have strange cuts on their bodies.

Hunger: You realize that the cuts may be the result of a hasty attempt to undress them all in a hurry. The bloody clothes are discarded in a pile across the corner. Whoever did this wanted to set a scene.

Nathan Keller: Besides that, you notice that there is a hammer left in front of the man. He is trying to break free and moaning while crying.

Rottweiler: I'm going to take my pen knife out and castrate him.

Hunger: First of all- this is a stabbing implement.

Hunger: Second- wow.

Rottweiler: Then I'm putting it straight in his groin.

Hunger: Roll Damage.

Nathan Keller: The thin pen-like knife bites into the flesh near his pubis. It doesn't go very deep but he is struggling.

Rottweiler: Fuck this I'm just shooting him there.

Hunger: As you raise your gun-

Hunger: BZZZ

Hunger: "Don't pretend to not have seen that."

Hunger: "That would be release- not punishment."

Rottweiler: I'll go back to mauling his genitals.

Nathan Keller: The man keels over in pain and passes out.

Nathan Keller: Condition Changes Unconscious

Rottweiler: "Is that all?"

Hunger: "No."

Hunger: "Although it did make an entertaining spectacle."

Hunger: "You still have a chance to save the hostages."

Rottweiler: "What am I missing?"

Hunger: "I'm not going to argue with you. That gun of yours has a mighty thick stock if you feel like the hammer is too horror movie."

Hunger: Silence.

Rottweiler: I suppose he wants me to bludgeon him to death. I'll give his skull a hit, pause a second if P.A guy wants to correct me and then keep going until it's mush.

Nathan Keller: Condition Changes Dead

Hunger: You caved his face in. At this moment, you experience an immense sense of deja-vu.

Hunger: You were able to talk with the PA before, you can do so again.

Hunger: There is a microphone... somewhere.

Rottweiler: "You guys aren't the Quiet Children and this isn't gonna work out for you."

Hunger: "Pshh. You think you're so smart huh? That guy wasn't even a pedophile. He was the chemistry teacher."

Hunger: "Try to fuck us, we'll fuck you back tenfold."

Hunger: Roll SANLOSS.

Hunger: ...Parsed.

Hunger: You can keep talking.

Rottweiler: "Sure." I'm leaving.

Hunger: "And that thing with the knife? Uncouth. I didn't know you were Jewish."

Rottweiler: Oh these guys are fucking hilarious.

Hunger: You're exiting, you'll be free to act like Cruz.

Hunger: Sartore.

Hunger: Since your thing is on this floor, we'll do it.

Rat: This is it, right?

Hunger: Yes. It needs some force to open.

Rat: Guess I can't make a discreet entrance. I'm throwing it open.

Rat: "H--" I'm holding my thoughts.

Hunger: "A man will soon hang from the second story foyer. Do not let him take his crimes to the grave before justice is dealt."

Hunger: Sartore, the shot-through door gives way after a strong push. You shove aside dead bodies. They seem to have been hosed down while trying to keep the door held shut. Inside are a bunch of dirty trays and filled up trash cans piled in a corner, which tells more or less that the students were just finishing up with lunch before the attack. You can tell more or less that this is where the students sought refuge after they realized they can't escape. Scorch marks dot the ground where pipe bombs exploded. Detached limbs and entrails are spread around. Roll ALERTNESS.

Rat: Rat rolls CRITICAL SUCCESS! -> 22 (Rolling Alertness Target: 50%)

Hunger: A scope glints through the skylight roof two stories above you. If he hasn't shot yet, he almost certainly is holding fire and waiting for commands.

Rat: Is that the guy who's supposed to hang? Is there a rope set up already?

Rat: Or was that what the rope in the bag was for?

Hunger: Before long, a man flops from the second story railing. He doesn't die immediately, his legs begin flailing around as he is slowly suffocating in this hell.

Daniel Chen: "NG-HG--NGH-KK-K--"

Rat: Okay, I can't pretend not to be someone I'm not anymore. "WHAT AM I SUPPOSED TO DO?!"

Hunger: No answers.

Rat: They want me to gun him down. I don't spot anything else relevant from that critical success, do I?

Rat: Is that the only object of attention in here besides the dead bodies?

Hunger: As you stagger...

Hunger: A shot flies in through the skylight as the panes shatter, freeing him from his noose.

Daniel Chen: "HUHGAUA--GUHH--"

Hunger: "Look what the fortune holds for us..."

Hunger: "I guess you'll have to make it harder for yourself now."

Rat: I'll backstep a little, keeping my rifle up.

Rat: "Who-- who are you?"

Hunger: He is still fully tied up with a tight noose around his neck, although he's not actively dying.

Daniel Chen: "HELP ME!!"

Rat: Nothing through the radio? Pitzerelli must be listening...

Hunger: ...

Daniel Chen: "PLEASE-!"

Daniel Chen: He gets hit in the stomach.

Daniel Chen: Daniel Chen rolls 1d6 -> 3 (Draws a result from the Abdomen Serious Wounds (5, 6, 7 Dmg) table)

Daniel Chen: "AAHRHG---!"

Rat: I'm going to push past the hesitation and step forward decisively. This is terrible.

Hunger: A shot lands a few feet front of you.

Hunger: You reckon the next one won't be so cheap.

Rat: I'll put one in his head. Dammit.

Daniel Chen: Condition Changes Dead

Badger: He yells from above: "Just so you know, that was a jest."

Badger: "I think you're pretty." He skitters away.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "What the fuck..."

Rat: I don't even know what to say. I've done a terrible thing, but if this is still going-- they're buying that I'm one of the old ones.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "You sick fucking... you fucking..."

Hunger: Sartore.

Rat: "Stop. Please don't do that. I didn't want to."

Hunger: This is your first killing of an innocent. Ever.

Hunger: Roll CONx5.

Hunger: Critical success.

Hunger: You only manage to throw up a handful rather than your whole guts, and in the process of doing so, you notice the wireless microphone taped right below the closest desk.

Rat: Condition Changes Stunned

Rat: I'll pull my mask back down as I cough and look at the microphone.

Rat: "Who was that? Why did you make me do that? TO WHAT END?"

Hunger: "One can not go on with their innocence intact."

Hunger: "It was only the beginning."

Rat: "You're setting up a high school to blow up, you freak! I'm trying to prevent that!"

Rat: "You've killed dozens already!"

Hunger: "You can do nothing but carry out a greater will. Nothing. Like your friends. Like you were always meant to. Their deaths do not matter."

Hunger: "After all, you're here."

Rat: "Just please-- give it up. You don't have to do this."

Rat: "We can help you. There's still a way out..."

Hunger: "I know I don't have to do it, but even if I laid down in mud and decided to rot there, would that make a difference?"

Hunger: "Fortunately the only way out is death. You'll find out sooner or later, like I will, very soon."

Hunger: It goes quiet.

Rat: I'll pull my mask up and cough up whatever's left in my esophagus before going on.

Hunger: SANLOSS.

Hunger: Like the others, you can continue after we resolve the remaining ones.

Hunger: Prower, Jones, move into the tile.

Alligator: Jones stops Prower for a moment.

Hunger: Prower goes first. 201 is right here.

Alligator: "Trust your gut - and if it comes down to it - suicide is the better option."

Alligator: He lets go of his shoulder.

Horse: "...Alright." He turns away.

Hunger: You can see the thin aerosol particles drift across the place through the empty space of the mess hall, illuminated by the skylight.

Hunger: Strangely enough this level seems dominated by footsteps and the usual dust. The bloodshed of the first floor is absent at the first sight.

Hunger: Prower.

Horse: Are those dolls?

Hunger: Yes.

Hunger: "A deranged woman pretends to be a good caretaker to the orphans. End her before she gets to act out her sick fantasies."

Hunger: Prower, you enter 201. There is a woman on the floor tied up with a length of towing chain, wriggling helplessly like a fish. Her mouth is held open and useless by a thick loop of what you assume to be rolled up bedsheet, and her neck is fastened to a large contraption that looks like a miniature guillotine...Otherwise, you're surrounded by a circle of chairs with dolls sitting on top of them. All of them are identical cloth dolls that resemble a girl or a boy, but one of them is unusually blonde in comparison. It doesn't look like anyone died here yet, but it really doesn't make it any less creepy.

Hunger: The contraption seems to be two wooden beams affixed to a base to create a vertical "slide" for something. The "something" in question is a cordless masonry drill. The hinge that closes around her neck is nailed shut with sunken nails to another thick block of wood. The thing holds her neck above her body in an extremely uncomfortable but non-lethal way. She seems exhausted by the whole ordeal, and can't do much more than cry. The intention here seems to be for you to start up a drill and lower it as much as you can... which would be through her neck.

Estelle Brooks: "MMM-MMM-MMM!!"

Horse: I approach her and look at the device closer. It's just a drill and some boards, right?

Creepy doll (blonde): The doll seems to stare you dead in the eyes as you move closer.

Estelle Brooks: The woman is flopping around like a fish, totally helpless.

Horse: Is she looking at me?

Hunger: Yes. Crying.

Horse: Prower turns around, looking around the room for cameras.

Hunger: One is pointed straight at the woman on the desk.

Horse: He looks back at the camera before turning to the woman. "If I don't do this... They're going to kill some kids."

Horse: "They've got the kids... They have all the kids hostage."

Estelle Brooks: It did not fucking help at all. She pissed herself. Maybe a bit of #2 as well.

Hunger: "Blondie does not like your kind words."

Hunger: "He disagrees, but he doesn't have a mouth."

Horse: "Shut up!"

Horse: Prower shoots the blonde doll with his shotgun.

Hunger: CLICK!

Hunger: Misfire.

Hunger: "What a coincidence."

Hunger: "You're here to kill someone you're supposed to save?"

Horse: Prower looks back at the camera. "You're going to kill them all anyways, aren't you?"

Horse: "It doesn't matter what I do here."

Hunger: "No. But my friends might. It's personal to me, but to them it's more of a... ehh... thing of good timing and convenience."

Hunger: "They're quite good at what they do."

Horse: Prower sniffs the air. What is that strange mist?

Horse: Is the room filled with gas fumes?

Hunger: Roll INT.

Horse: Horse rolls Success -> 56 (Rolling INT Target: 75%)

Hunger: Almost certainly, and its moving in the same strange dancing form as the rest of the clouds.

Hunger: It did not do anything to you.

Horse: It's gasoline?

Hunger: No, it has no smell, you have no clue what it is.

Hunger: If it was an accelerant then its saturated enough that just the overhead light heat would have turned the place into ash.

Horse: Is there anything attached to the woman, besides the board device and her bindings?

Hunger: No. Just the dress she's wearing.

Horse: I pick up a doll and look at it closely. Is it really a doll?

Hunger: "I've had enough disrespect."

Hunger: You hear a gunshot.

Hunger: "The next one is not a freebie."

Creepy doll (blonde): It is, a doll.

Horse: "You're sick... You're all going to hell. You're gonna blow this place up no matter what we do." Prower grabs the cordless drill and turns it on. "So I guess nothing we do really matters..."

Estelle Brooks: Condition Changes Dead

Estelle Brooks: With a sick sound, the drill easily goes in through the front and out through the back of the neck of the woman.

Horse: Prower turns to the camera, making sure it's watching him.

Hunger: "Feels good, doesn't it?"

Horse: Prower just shakes his head.

Hunger: "You're not just a little punk anymore."

Hunger: "You're one of us."

Horse: Prower walks out of the room, shoving over the camera as he leaves.

Hunger: "Good. It would be thrilling to be hunted by something so merciless."

Hunger: Jones.

Hunger: You're in front of the library.

Hunger: The door won't open itself you know.

Alligator: I open up and enter.

Hunger: It's dark.

Hunger: "Many of the orphans in the deranged womans care were lost after they were freed. Find out where they are, and make sure they don't follow in the same footsteps as she."

Hunger: You enter the library. It looks like nobody was here when the shooting began, and there is no clutter on or around the floor. It's possible that with this, a full-time librarian isn't even on the payroll. The painfully dry mothball and dust smell stabs at your sinuses like a knife, and like an unpleasant bout of flu, you have no option but to roll with it until it's done. How you even begin with "finding" the quiet children is up to you. Do they expect it to happen on its own?"

Alligator: Usually it's the quiet children who finds us. George looks underneath the librarian's desk.

Hunger: Somehow, you manage to find a thin red slip of paper tucked between the childrens books with the following on it:"Enter the enclosure south of you, and find the right computer."Enclosure...?

Alligator: Probably the computer lab.

Alligator: If they have one.

Hunger: Proceed.

Hunger: The enclosure seems to refer to the computer lab. There isn't anything extraordinary besides the red grafitti on the floor. The red brain. You've seen this one more than once before. Whatever you are looking for, it must be here.

Alligator: "Very interesting. My guess is they didn't come up with this themselves," Jones says out loud to himself.

Alligator: Any computers on or plugged in?

Alligator: Is there a numbering system?

Hunger: Roll Search, or something more interesting if you have a better idea.

Hunger: Success.

Hunger: You notice that one of the mice on the desks is stained with blood, as if someone gripped it hard after dipping his hands in red. You power on the screen and all you see is the lock screen background set to a certain photo you've seen before. Roll ALERTNESS.

Alligator: Alligator rolls Success -> 19 (Rolling Alertness Target: 50%)

Tiger: He's waiting in the room, holding a fire axe.

Tiger: "So."

Tiger: "Easy way or the hard way?"

Hunger: He's huge. Athlete-built.

Alligator: "You're forcing it. It's quite pathetic, you know?"

Tiger: "I'm not the one forcing it. I'm just playing my part."

Alligator: "Ah, forget it. It's like trying to explain colors to a blind guy. You up for good old fists?"

Tiger: "..."

Tiger: "Lose the gun."

Alligator: George almost ritually sets it on the desk.

Tiger: "Belt one too. I know I don't have anything besides this." He nods at his illegally modified AR machinegun.

Alligator: He grabs his sidearm and puts it on the table.

Alligator: "You're not the one I want to speak to, anyways. And maybe the PA guy isn't too. Probably not."

Tiger: He tosses his fire axe to the side of the room and cracks his huge knuckles.

Tiger: "I'm not the talking type."

Tiger: "You've made a big mistake."

Alligator: George cracks his neck and stands across him as he drops his shield too. Then he rushes at him.

Hunger: He's faster than you, and had the time to evaluate the situation.

Hunger: Heads or tails- if you succeed you'll have the starter move.

Hunger: Call it.

Alligator: heads still

Alligator: 1

Tiger: You're just opening yourself up by making the first step. He'll throw a well-trained left hook at your jaw.

Tiger: Tiger rolls Success -> 60 (Rolling Unarmed Combat Target: 60%)

Tiger: 6

Tiger: Good hit for 5 damage.

Tiger: Tiger rolls 1d6 -> 2 (Draws a result from the Head Serious Wounds (5, 6, 7 Dmg) table)

Hunger: Throw KO.

Hunger: CONx5.

Alligator: Alligator rolls Success -> 31 (Rolling CON Target: 70%)

Hunger: You're stunned. He acts again.

Tiger: He'll knee you in the abdomen at a -10%.

Tiger: Tiger rolls Failure -> 68 (Rolling Unarmed Combat Target: 60%)

Tiger: It hits the brunt of your gut, not actually harming you beneath your fat body.

Alligator: George wants to get this guy onto the ground. He'll try a single leg takedown on this freak.

Hunger: Complicated move. Throw and we'll see.

Hunger: Unarmed 52. Success.

Hunger: You can have a grab on him, and next turn if you succeed again you can have him on the floor.

Hunger: While grabbed he'll act at a -20%.

Hunger: As you try to position yourself for a takedown, he switches to elbowing you.

Hunger: He's going to try and connect his elbow straight into your shoulder socket, at a -20%.

Tiger: Tiger rolls Failure -> 92 (Rolling Unarmed Combat Target: 60%)

Tiger: It hits your plate carrier instead.

Tiger: Contested STRx5 roll to bring him down, or go for another move.

Alligator: Let's do it.

Alligator: Alligator rolls Success -> 27 (Rolling STR Target: 80%)

Tiger: Tiger rolls Failure -> 82 (Rolling STR Target: 80%)

Tiger: You hook him behind the knee and pin him on the floor. He's still actively fighting you.

Tiger: Condition Changes Prone

Alligator: That's fine. Still my move?

Tiger: No, but if you succeed another STRx5, you'll actually be able to take him out the fight.

Tiger: Active Conditions Prone

Tiger: For now, he's going to try and yank your foot to bring you down to prone level.

Tiger: Tiger rolls Success -> 5 (Rolling Unarmed Combat Target: 60%)

Tiger: Tiger rolls Failure -> 89 (Rolling STR Target: 80%)

Tiger: He's got a good hold on you but he didn't actually manage to throw you off balance, fighting will continue. You won't pin him like this.

Alligator: No STRx5 contest? I want to yank his mask off and ground and pound hhim.

Tiger: It's a pretty tight fit latex mask, you're not sure if you can do both of those things at once.

Alligator: Yanking the mask off might give a psychological effect. I want to take the character he is playing out of the picture. These personas seem pretty fugazi.

Tiger: This will consume your turn. Proceed?

Alligator: Yep.

Tiger: He seems oddly Hispanic...

Tiger: Active Conditions Prone

Tiger: He's going to bring you down with his grab with a +20% advantage for attempting to do it again.

Tiger: Tiger rolls CRITICAL FAILURE! -> 99 (Rolling STR Target: 80%)

Tiger: Target is 100%, 99 would be critical success. On a 100 that would be a coin of fate.

Alligator: Condition Changes Prone

Alligator: Active Conditions Prone

Hunger: You're struggling with eachother on the ground now. This is getting dirty fast.

Alligator: It takes two to tango, yes. Who's on top?

Hunger: Right now, with his critical success...

Hunger: I'd say a nice contested STR would determine that with a +20% advantage to him.

Tiger: Tiger rolls Success -> 26 (Rolling STR Target: 80%)

Hunger: Critical success.

Hunger: You're on top.

Alligator: I'm going to ground and pound with hands and elbows. Straight hammers on this kid.

Hunger: Unarmed and damage.

Hunger: Success at a 70 with 3 damage.

Tiger: Tiger rolls 1d6 -> 1 (Draws a result from the Head Minor Wounds (3, 4 Dmg) table)

Tiger: Tiger rolls Failure -> 75 (Rolling CON Target: 70%)

Tiger: He staggers. Act again.

Alligator: I'm just going to start slamming his head into the floor.

Tiger: Roll unarmed damage twice.

Tiger: In separate occasions.

Alligator: Just the damage rolls?

Tiger: Yes, success.

Tiger: 5 and 4.

Tiger: Tiger rolls 1d6 -> 1 (Draws a result from the Head Serious Wounds (5, 6, 7 Dmg) table)

Tiger: No need for further elaboration. He stops moving and goes to the long sleep.

Tiger: Condition Changes Unconscious Dead

Alligator: George dusts himself off as he gets up. "Wrong game and wrong player."

Hunger: You hear clapping from the PA.

Hunger: "Impressive."

Hunger: "Moreso than the poor guy at the locker room."

Hunger: "Give me a good question, and I'll make it worth your time."

Alligator: "You didn't come up with this yourselves, didn't you?"

Hunger: "Of course not. Do you think a bunch of incels would be able to put this together?"

Alligator: "Hell no. Would you like to ask a question?"

Hunger: "I've been trying to tell you. This is something beyond your reach. It's the work of the same god we serve."

Hunger: "I do, actually."

Alligator: "Go right ahead."

Hunger: "Are you happy that your life has an objective purpose towards a greater goal?"

Alligator: "I haven't been happy since 2001, kid. That was a pretty bad question and your lack of curiosity is telling. I'll give you a freebie. At any point your little clown car could've been rammed off the freeway and lit up like a christmas tree by men in black masks. Why didn't that happen? I'll let you think on that."

Hunger: "...Would it now?"

Hunger: "I'll give you something to think about."

Alligator: "Oh, and I know you're hearing this too, you shit," George says as he's holding onto the earpiece.

Hunger: "Why do you think they decided it's a worth-it trade for 52 innocent lives in exchange for figuring out what's actually going on here?"

Alligator: "Oh yeah. Now we're speaking the same language."

Alligator: "Although you've been dead-ended through no fault of your own, so any answers are kind of moot for you, aren't they?"

Alligator: George grabs his guns and shield.

Hunger: "I've already had my answers. Unlike you."

Hunger: All of you start hearing distant sirens...

Hunger: Not too long after...

Hunger: Rifle shots from above you.

Hunger: It looks like he wants to hold them back.

Alligator: "They're shooting at cops. We're running out of- ah fuck, we never had options, did we now?" he says over comms.

Hunger: Pitzerelli is fucking stunned, he is quiet.

Hunger: With that-

Hunger: Let's take it from the beginning with the bottom floor. What are we doing, 3 of you?

Hunger: But before that...

Hunger: "The sixth. The sixth. Oh the infamous Sixth. I wonder why haven't you shown up yet. Your friends are about to eat your cut of the meat."He clears his throat."Free of your chains, The Hungry Mother can't do anything but to wait for you to destroy her now. Assert your dominance over her in front of the cows to end this farcical existence."

Rottweiler: Where was tooth #6 meant to go, again?

Rat: I've been crouching and sobbing by this man's corpse and I'll remain so until I'm called up. You can probably hear it on comms too, though I'm stifling it.

Hunger: Upper floor, music room.

Alligator: George will head there.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "I can't believe this is fucking happening..."

Fish: I'm the closest to the stairs, I can head up

Rottweiler: I'm going straight there too and we'll draw straws to decide who does the trial.

Hunger: Michael, as you exit the locker room.

Rottweiler: "What the fuck are you even surprised about?" I say to my mic.

Miguel Alvarez: This door suddenly opens and out comes a scared man.

Miguel Alvarez: "AAH!"

Miguel Alvarez: He's sprinting away from you.

Rottweiler: The fuck? No way they missed one. I'm chasing after him.

Miguel Alvarez: He's rounding the corner. He's faster and lighter than you.

Miguel Alvarez: Athletics.

Rottweiler: Rottweiler rolls Failure -> 81 (Rolling Athletics Target: 70%)

Hunger: Not even a match.

Miguel Alvarez: Sartore, the man pauses and looks at the pile of bodies.

Miguel Alvarez: "FUCK!"

Rat: I'm sniffing and looking back at him.

Fish: "Wha- WHO THE FUCK IS THIS?!?"

Rat: Then pointing to my left, the direction he's supposed to run down the corridor.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "What the fuck are you doing?"

Rottweiler: "Shut up."

Hunger: Cruz, unless you interfere, he will exit the building.

Fish: I'm giving chase, too, fuck it.

Miguel Alvarez: Send it.

Fish: Fish rolls CRITICAL FAILURE! -> 88 (Rolling Athletics Target: 50%)

Hunger: You slip on a puddle of blood and faceplant.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "YOU MORONS! DON'T LET HIM-"

Hunger: As soon as he is out, his head explodes.

Miguel Alvarez: Condition Changes Dead

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: You hear deflating on the other side of comms.

Fish: "I don't see YOU stopping him."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: No answer.

Hunger: Is everyone proceeding to z2?

Fish: I am

Rottweiler: Yes!

Hunger: Make your way over.

Hunger: If you don't see her coming you already know where she is.

Alligator: George is heading in.

Hunger: Not yet. You hear footsteps behind you.

Hunger: Actually, all of you can see Sartore kinda crouched over and crying from the foyer.

Horse: "...The real cops are here."

Hunger: It will take a while for them to show up.

Hunger: He must be giving them hell up there.

Rottweiler: "I'm guessing they want only one of us in there."

Hunger: Even if only one goes in, you can still pile up and do this breaching style.

Rottweiler: "I'm the one who got us into this so I'll bite the bullet."

Rottweiler: "Let's go."

Hunger: Hurry up and take position, we don't have much time.

Hunger: All of you can still see her as you circle the hallway.

Alligator: George yells over - "Sartore! Get the fuck up here now!"

Rottweiler: We really don't have time to do a pep-talk before clearing these fucking tasks.

Rat: I'll close his eyes. "I'll... fuck."

Rat: Then I'll stand up and jog over.

Rottweiler: When everyone is stacked up I open the door.

Hunger: As you swing the music room door open, you immediately notice one of the shooters are waiting for you inside. However, he is not holding a gun...

Raven: He's staunching the blood coming out of this womans back, clearly from a gunshot wound. She herself seems to be slowly suffocating to her own collapsing lungs, not having much more time. Her arms are handcuffed to the legs of the grand piano, locking her in stomach-down on it, with her thighs applying pressure on the keys. It's making a distorted, dirge-like melody as she squirms."...Either I pack this in or she dies in the next thirty seconds. But you gotta let me leave. Truce?" You hear another white boy's voice behind the mask. It's not the one coming from the PA. His rifle is slung back, and his hands are drenched red with many bloodstained pieces of gauze laying around.

Rat: I'll speak to Prower in a low voice as I walk past him. "We have to talk-- when this is over."

Rottweiler: "So what? We're just meant to let you go?"

Horse: Prower doesn't even look at her.

Raven: "This one is not about killing her."

Raven: "He said assert dominance, remember?"

Alligator: "Why's she shot, then?"

Raven: As he says that, you realize that her pants are discarded towards the other end of the room.

Raven: "Didn't react to the gas."

Raven: "Doesn't work all the time, you know."

Raven: "Hence the bodies."

Rottweiler: "You want one of us to rape her?"

Raven: "..."

Alligator: "Theoretically this one is none of our business given that there is no sixth tooth."

Raven: "You're just buying time, you know."

Alligator: "Oh yeah."

Raven: "Time is against her."

Rottweiler: "Just fucking go, all of you."

Raven: "Is that a yes?"

Rottweiler: "Yes."

Rottweiler: I step up to the stage.

Raven: "Can all of you back the fuck up?"

Raven: "I mean it."

Rat: Is he holding a weapon or the gauze?

Raven: Still the gauze. He's going to pack it up and leave.

Fish: "Hey, hey, I'm a hell of a ways away."

Rat: I'm going to blow the shit out of him from this up-close position where he's got no cover.

Hunger: Cruz, roll Alertness.

Alligator: We're supposed to assert dominance, right? Didn't say how.

Fish: Fish rolls Success -> 41 (Rolling Alertness Target: 50%)

Lynx: Condition Changes Aiming

Lynx: He's got it on you.

Lynx: He shakes his head slowly.

Fish: Ah.

Fish: I suppose I'm not a ways enough, am I?

Hunger: If he wanted to shoot now he already would have.

Fish: I'm backing off, then.

Hunger: That being said, what are you doing with the raven?

Rat: I'm shooting him. I'm not standing for this. I got close for a reason.

Hunger: No one interrupting this?

Horse: No.

Rottweiler: Can I?

Fish: I'm outside of the room, I can't really do shit, can I?

Hunger: You have a split second.

Alligator: I'd rather not.

Rottweiler: I'm going to charge her before she gets one of us killed.

Hunger: Roll STR.

Rottweiler: Rottweiler rolls Success -> 39 (Rolling STR Target: 60%)

Hunger: You know the thing they say about sudden movements?

Raven: As you charge across the room, he thinks you're coming for him and draws a M1911 and fires straight ahead.

Raven: Aim & bodypart: Not aimed, no bodypart. Fire rate & range: Short range, single shot. Speed & size: $\leq$ Normal, regular.

Raven: Raven rolls Success -> 24 (Rolling Firearms Target: 40%)

Raven: It's for George.

Raven: 5

Raven: Raven rolls 1d10 -> 8 (Draws a result from the Random Hit Location d10 table)

Raven: Raven rolls 1d6 -> 2 (Draws a result from the Arm Serious Wounds (5,6,7 Dmg) table)

Hunger: d1: left d2: right

Hunger: 1

Hunger: George, roll CONx5.

Hunger: Failure. You're stunned.

Alligator: Condition Changes Stunned

Lynx: He fires too.

Lynx: Aim & bodypart: Aimed, no bodypart. Fire rate & range: Short range, single shot. Speed & size: $\leq$ Normal, regular.

Hunger: Fish and horse rolls SUPPRESSION for the fact that someone just fucking sent buckshot towards their direction.

Horse: is that in macros

Hunger: POWx5.

Fish: Fish rolls Success -> 73 (Rolling POW Target: 80%)

Raven: Cruz may act.

Horse: Horse rolls Success -> 62 (Rolling POW Target: 70%)

Raven: So can Prower.

Margaret Ellis: Condition Changes Dead

Rat: Did I get to discharge before being tackled?

Hunger: No you're both on the floor as if this shit wasn't bad enough.

Rat: Matter of fact, did the gunshot stop Sajdak and get him on the raven-- ok.

Lynx: This guy...

Lynx: Something about his suit. The fact that he is fully covered, limbs and all.

Lynx: And he is wearing a protective visor.

Lynx: THAT DOESN'T REALLY MATTER MORE than the fact that he's got another buckshot coming at you.

Lynx: He is gonna push you in.

Lynx: Aim & bodypart: Not aimed, no bodypart. Attachments: Short-range attachment(s). Fire rate & range: Short range, single shot. Speed & size: ≤ Normal, regular.

Lynx: Lynx rolls CRITICAL SUCCESS! -> 33 (Rolling Firearms Target: 50%)

Lynx: OUCH! FUCK!

Lynx: He is going to target Cruz again.

Lynx: 9

Lynx: Lynx rolls 1d10 -> 10 (Draws a result from the Random Hit Location d10 table)

Lynx: 7 damage.

Lynx: Lynx rolls 1d6 -> 2 (Draws a result from the Head Serious Wounds (5, 6, 7 Dmg) table)

Lynx: Holy moly- one of the pellets get into your eye.

Lynx: Cruz, I'll give you the honors of rolling d2 for which.

Fish: 1

Lynx: Roll Con x5.

Fish: Fish rolls Success -> 27 (Rolling CON Target: 60%)

Fish: Condition Changes Stunned

Fish: "GAAAAH-!!!"

Rat: Can you tell me what kind of armor this dude was wearing again?

Hunger: Raven is wearing a standard plate carrier with a helmet.

Hunger: You're being actively tackled by Sajdak.

Rat: Ahhhh shit. I guess even if he did stagger, he's on top of me.

Rat: Gotta get him off.

Hunger: You can try to squirm out too with a Dodge.

Fish: Condition Changes Serious Bleeding

Alligator: Condition Changes Serious Bleeding

Raven: Actually, you manage to get back on your feet before falling, and you send Sajdak crashing into the fucking synthesizers instead.

Rottweiler: Condition Changes Stunned

Rat: Can I up pole in the same turn?

Hunger: You can act with no restrictions, but he's stunned.

Rat: Aim & bodypart: Not aimed, no bodypart. Attachments: Short-range attachment(s). Fire rate & range: Short range, single shot. Speed & size: ≤ Normal, regular.

Hunger: Critical failure!

Hunger: You hit the lady instead.

Alligator: Active Conditions Stunned Serious Bleeding

Rat: "FUCK FUCK FUUUUUCK!!"

Alligator: can i roll to get clear of the stun

Hunger: Sure, but if this guy really has in mind to escape... why not just stay the fuck down?

Hunger: That's a freebie for your newly found intelligence.

Alligator: George just flops on the ground like a beached whale.

Hunger: That was a free action- you can do something about the bleeding if you wish.

Alligator: No medkit? Any gauze lying around?

Hunger: You have some. Raw first aid.

Alligator: Alligator rolls Failure -> 57 (Rolling First Aid Target: 30%)

Alligator: Condition Changes Serious Bleeding Light Bleeding

Fish: Active Conditions Stunned Serious Bleeding

Fish: Can I try and fix the fact I'm stunned and move in the same turn? I need to get OUT of here.

Hunger: Failing the CONx5 could be catastrophic. This kid is not fucking playing around.

Fish: Well there's not much else I can do, is there?

Fish: I hardly think shooting at him with a busted eye is the call here.

Fish: Fish rolls Success -> 27 (Rolling CON Target: 60%)

Hunger: Act freely.

Fish: Condition Changes Stunned

Fish: Can I run into the room where the tiger was earlier? I need to buy myself some time to try and bandage myself up.

Hunger: A 15 meter sprint is possible with a succesful Athletics roll. However, as I said, you're free to act...

Fish: If I fail, I'm as good as dead. I'm diving in the music room, whatever bullshit going on in there is probably safer than getting shot in the back.

Hunger: Alright. The room with the active shooter in it. Then?

Fish: Beats the other active shooter.

Hunger: ...

Alligator: This whole school has active shooters in it.

Raven: He's gonna try to Mozambique drill Sartore. More are pouring in, and you're not really letting him go.

Raven: Aim & bodypart: Not aimed, no bodypart. Fire rate & range: Short range, single shot. Speed & size: $\leq$ Normal, regular.

Fish: I said dive, mind, I am ABSOLUTELY hiding behind these chairs.

Raven: -10% to torso.

Raven: Raven rolls CRITICAL FAILURE! -> 99 (Rolling Firearms Target: 40%)

Raven: Since this is a nasty ultra-failure I don't think he hit Sajdak, but it would be so goddamn funny if he did.

Raven: Instead...

Raven: The gun explodes.

Raven: 79

Raven: He takes 16 damage to his right arm.

Raven: Raven rolls 1d6 -> 6 (Draws a result from the Leg Critical Wounds (8+ Dmg) table)

Raven: It's essentially mangled.

Raven: "AARHGHHR---!!"

Raven: Condition Changes Dead

Rat: I'm horrified and perplexed parts equal...

Hunger: With that, you feel a wave of deja-vu wash over you.

Hunger: Sartore, roll SANLOSS.

Rottweiler: Active Conditions Stunned

Hunger: Sajdak, you can clear this for free. The attacker is dead.

Rottweiler: Condition Changes Stunned

Hunger: The PA roars. "Is the world over yet? Wow, this must be Heaven! AHAHAHAH!—" "The young man laughs to himself, at the end of his wits. "We're made. We screwed up. It's never going to work now. We've been lied to! But damn did we try! I knew that all he had to sell for magic was just a single party trick."

Rottweiler: Then I'm overwatching the doorway from here.

Hunger: Jones is on the floor, you can do so.

Alligator: "They figured it out! They're gonna be gunning for us now!"

Rottweiler: Condition Changes Aiming

Fish: "So help me God if I don't live to rip him limb from limb..."

Hunger: Prower, you're staring down the barrel of a shotgun.

Horse: Now you can see him.

Horse: He is quite literally right in front of you.

Horse: My gun's not up. Do I have any chance to duck into the other room?

Hunger: You can.

Horse: Then that's what I'll try to do.

Horse: DEXx5?

Hunger: No need for a roll, you can just do it.

Lynx: He takes cover right next to the door and drops his shotgun on a sling.

Lynx: "HERE COMES THE PIPE BOOOMB!!!"

Hunger: Hunger rolls 2d8k1 -> 8 (Draws a result from the Slow Projectile Deviation table)

Horse: "FUCK!"

Lynx: Lynx rolls Failure -> 94 (Rolling Athletics Target: 60%)

Lynx: He misses and throws to the deviation range.

Hunger: He was targeting the dead center of the room, which would mean it lands roughly...

Hunger: The blast zone will be about here.

Hunger: Cruz will probably die, Jones takes light shrapnel damage... actually he's on the floor so maybe half of the result.

Hunger: It will explode the next turn.

Hunger: It will also suppress everyone in the room because its a FUCKING BOMB

Rat: Can I snap out of staring at the woman I just killed and fling a concussion grenade over here...?

Hunger: You can, but it will likely explode in the same turn as the pipe bomb, and to add insult to injury, that guy is in not just extended but FULL ARMOR against shrapnel like a makeshift EOD getup.

Hunger: He is probably the one responsible for all the explosives.

Rat: A flashbang would be more effective, if at all. Dammit.

Rat: Is Jones too heavy for me to pull back?

Hunger: Jones is not in that big of a danger considering he is prone and will take little damage from it.

Rat: I don't want him to take any damage, and I'm getting my ears blown out next turn. I need to pull him by the carrier.

Hunger: The strength difference is pretty immense.

Hunger: That would be a limit if you weren't something special.

Hunger: You pull him back as far as you want.

Alligator: Active Conditions Stunned Prone Light Bleeding

Alligator: I'm switching to pistol.

Hunger: Smart, considering that you can't use anything else.

Hunger: Anything further?

Alligator: Nothing much I can do until the big kaboom.

Fish: Active Conditions Serious Bleeding

Fish: Can I bolt it to the other corner of the room, or do I not have enough movement?

Hunger: "Well, my brothers, I guess this is it. I'm disarming the detonator. The big one is planted beneath the gym bleachers. My idiot friends may have, but personally I did not come here to kill a bunch of random teenagers. I never cared much for this school shit anyway." "Meet us at the roof, it's entered through the north staircase at the gym. Not that I could bring myself to die before meeting my heroes. That's right. You are our heroes." "Just so we're on the same page, I'm not sorry for all this. I just think that it was personal, and that it should have stayed personal, but here we are." He drops the microphone, making a big screeching sound all throughout the school. You notice sirens getting closer. You also notice the screaming coming from the gym.

Lynx: "MONROE! YOU FUCKING SON OF A-!"

Hunger: He sounds... like a black kid?

Hunger: Cruz, Athletics.

Fish: Fish rolls CRITICAL FAILURE! -> 100 (Rolling Athletics Target: 50%)

Fish: FUCK

Hunger: Coin of fate.

Hunger: d2: win.

Fish: 1

Hunger: You exit the immediate death zone but you interrupt Sajdak's overwatch.

Rottweiler: Active Conditions Aiming Aiming

Fish: Beats getting blown to shit, I suppose.

Rottweiler: Is Cruz blocking me or could I try wallbanging Lynx?

Hunger: Cruz is blocking you.

Hunger: You can still move, though.

Rottweiler: What about chucking a flashbang?

Hunger: Possible. Athletics roll without malus.

Hunger: Where do you want it?

Rottweiler: Past the doors, preferably opposite Lynx so it's out of our LOS.

Hunger: roll

Hunger: Success.

Lynx: Condition Changes Stunned

Lynx: "AAA-AAA!!"

Hunger: Prower, as the fuse on the pipe bomb comes to its end, you notice the screaming around you.

Horse: What... Who's screaming?

Hunger: Perhaps the kids who are currently in the process of running away from the gym.

Horse: Do I have time to duck into cover, or am I far enough away already? I'm not running towards a fucking grenade.

Hunger: You're out the immediate kill zone.

Hunger: Act now, we don't have much time left.

Horse: I'm diving into the corner, behind this little thing.

Hunger: Cover?

Hunger: Partial will need dex but full is free.

Horse: Condition Changes Full Cover

Lynx: Active Conditions Stunned

Lynx: "FUCK!"

Lynx: He can't do much more than... you know.

Hunger: Cruz takes d6 damage to a random bodypart.

Hunger: 1

Hunger: Hunger rolls 1d10 -> 7 (Draws a result from the Random Hit Location d10 table)

Hunger: He's gonna be okay.

Fish: "IS THAT ALL YOU'VE GOT???"

Lynx: "I CAN'T SEEEOEEE!!!"

Rat: Is that a stun or is it suppression we're affected by due to the blast?

Hunger: Sartore.

Hunger: Roll HUMINT.

Hunger: You have a terrible gut feeling aside from the bomb.

Hunger: Other than that everyone rolls POWx5.

Fish: Fish rolls Success -> 74 (Rolling POW Target: 80%)

Alligator: Alligator rolls Success -> 18 (Rolling POW Target: 50%)

Hunger: Those who succeed can act.

Alligator: Active Conditions Stunned Prone Light Bleeding

Hunger: Actually Sartore acts.

Rat: While the enemy outside is indisposed-- I can do little about it with my 5.56...

Rat: Can I drop my pistol with the HOLO on Jones' chest and take aim past Cruz?

Hunger: Jones already has his own gun out.

Hunger: You aim past Cruz.

Rat: Condition Changes Aiming

Rat: Righto.

Alligator: Active Conditions Stunned Prone Light Bleeding

Alligator: George is getting up. Can I go through the door to the side and try to flank this fuck?

Hunger: You're seriously fucked up and still bleeding from the arm. Charging a guy in a self-made EOD suit with this thing is not a great idea.

Hunger: Seriously.

Rat: I'm shouting "DEAD END." if he's visibly going for that.

Alligator: Fair enough.

Alligator: Can I try further patching myself?

Hunger: You stop the bleeding. The bullet didn't exit so it is manageable. Cruz might heal you a bit, though.

Alligator: Condition Changes Light Bleeding

Fish: Active Conditions Serious Bleeding

Fish: Lynx is directly north from me, right?

Hunger: Yes.

Fish: I'm taking a step back, as to stop blocking Sajdak, and I'm going to shoot the shit out of the wall.

Hunger: Send it.

Fish: Fish rolls Success -> 18 (Rolling Firearms Target: 40%)

Fish: Aim & bodypart: Not aimed, no bodypart. Fire rate & range: Short range, short burst. Speed & size: ≤ Normal, regular.

Hunger: The shots go past the wall, but the anemic 5.56 can barely defeat it.

Hunger: He'll take no AP pistol damage behind.

Hunger: Damage.

Hunger: And location.

Fish: 9

Fish: Fish rolls 1d10 -> 1 (Draws a result from the Random Hit Location d10 table)

Lynx: He takes six damage to the left leg.

Lynx: Lynx rolls 1d6 -> 2 (Draws a result from the Leg Serious Wounds (5, 6, 7 Dmg) table)

Lynx: Lynx rolls Success -> 27 (Rolling CON Target: 55%)

Lynx: "HOLY FFFF-"

Lynx: Sartore. He sounds like he's stunned for real this time.

Lynx: That was the gut feeling.

Rat: Good, he deserves fucking worse.

Rottweiler: Would it be -10% if I walk out to try and finish him?

Hunger: You don't have a 5.56 and you already have a clean shot to where Cruz laid fire on.

Rottweiler: I'll follow his fire up.

Rottweiler: Aim & bodypart: Not aimed, no bodypart. Attachments: Short-range attachment(s). Fire rate & range: Short range, short burst. Speed & size: ≤ Normal, regular.

Rottweiler: Rottweiler rolls Success -> 29 (Rolling Firearms Target: 50%)

Rottweiler: Rottweiler rolls 1d10 -> 7 (Draws a result from the Random Hit Location d10 table)

Hunger: He takes 7 damage to torso, clean.

Hunger: Hunger rolls 1d6 -> 2 (Draws a result from the Abdomen Serious Wounds (5, 6, 7 Dmg) table)

Lynx: Condition Changes Unconscious Dead

Lynx: His shotgun clatters onto the floor.

Hunger: Cruz, first aid roll on both yourself and Jones.

Fish: I was just about to ask

Hunger: And throw a medicine.

Hunger: Twice.

Alligator: George takes off the fuck ass gator mask.

Rat: I'm pushing Sajdak aside and nervously rushing to the woman. Where precisely did I shoot her, can I tell?

Rottweiler: On one hand I'm angry that Sartore almost got us killed and on the other I'm immeasurably glad that she stopped me from sodomizing an old woman.

Fish: I'm taking this god damn fish mask off, too, before trying any first aid.

Horse: "There's cameras everywhere."

Fish: Fish rolls Success -> 41 (Rolling First Aid Target: 70%)

Rottweiler: I take the mask off.

Fish: Fish rolls Success -> 2 (Rolling First Aid Target: 70%)

Horse: Prower keeps the mask on.

Hunger: One at a time:- Monroe seems to have abandoned the ship- Margaret passed out before you hit her, it's not really your fault

Fish: Fish rolls Success -> 16 (Rolling Medicine Target: 40%)

Fish: Fish rolls Success -> 32 (Rolling Medicine Target: 40%)

Alligator: Just the animal mask. The balaclava is still on.

Alligator: We should probably get to the roof.

Rat: "I'm fucking sorry..." With that, I'm sprinting over to the gym.

Hunger: Cruz, you heal d4 HP. Your left eye is... well, let's just say you should pick a nice eyepatch or bring ballistic glasses the next time. Jones, you heal d4 HP. Your elbow is gonna be fine... after a few months.

Alligator: 3

Fish: 3

Fish: Condition Changes Serious Bleeding

Alligator: Also, your eye hit is superficial, you regain 2 hp from that.

Hunger: I need to clear your masks and take a pee. In the meantime, take it slow and tell me what you wanna do. Z2 opens to gym foyer, by the way.

Hunger: At this point you can tell the roof hatch is probably somewhere in the gym.

Hunger: The sirens are really close now.

Rat: Right, I'd forgotten. I ran east to the gym foyer.

Hunger: Badger could hope to survive for another...

Hunger: 2

Hunger: minutes.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "GET THE FUCK UP THERE! NOW!"

Horse: "The cops are here. We need to get the fuck out."

Fish: "Oh my god CAN YOU QUIT SHOUTING IN MY FUCKING EAR???"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "YOU'RE NOT GETTING OUT BEFORE YOU KILL THEM!"

Rat: I'm just panting without response while running over this way.

Hunger: Restore your names. You know how to.

Rottweiler: "What are you gonna do, kill us? You think we give a shit?"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: I'm heading to the roof, if only because I want to know what these guys' deal was. Who the hell put them up to this?

Hunger: Let's continue.

A large man (Cruz): I'm heading to the roof, too, in a bid to get this shit over with.

Alligator: George is also moving to the roof.

SA Chris K. Prower: Prower's coming. There's no reason not to, if everyone else is...

Hunger: A round foyer crowns the gym. From this height you could pick any head you wanted. Thick aerosolized particles fly around in wild patterns. Slight fog condenses at the roof. The rigging room up here seems to have two dead bodies in it. Not more dangerous than the living, waiting for you inside.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Wait-- if there's gas, and only Sajdak and I are wearing masks-- no time to think about this.

Hunger: None of you are wearing PPE. None of you have been.

Hunger: It's not doing anything.

Alligator: It's inert.

Hunger: It didn't do anything back then either, when other students were... doing that.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: That's even stranger. Where's the way down? I need to make sure the kids get out and locate the bomb in the bleachers.

Hunger: That room says "STAFF ONLY".

Hunger: You don't see any kids in the gym anymore.

Hunger: They probably all ran as fast as possible.

Hunger: You found the roof access. It's a small ladder, going up through a square hatch.

Hunger: As you look up to the sky...

Hunger: You hear a shot from the roof.

A woman (Sartore): That takes priority over the bomb, however much I need to make sure I won't die to a timer.

Badger: The shot did not come towards you.

Badger: Condition Changes Dead

A woman (Sartore): "HEY!"

SA Chris K. Prower: "Yeah? I'm with you."

Otter: He's still holding the gun.

A woman (Sartore): At whom?

Fox: So is this figure. This must be her.

Otter: No one in particular.

Otter: "Well."

Otter: "They say never meet your heroes."

Otter: "I hope you don't mess this up like I did."

A woman (Sartore): I'm creeping forward.

Otter: "What are you gonna do? Arrest me?"

Otter: He points his gun at his own chin. Fox follows suit.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "You know two of us aren't even the teeth from '01. How did you guys learn about this shit anyway?"

A woman (Sartore): "PUT THEM DOWN--!"

Otter: "Conradin told us everything. About the teeth. About the reality we face. About the end of it all."

Otter: "Looks like we were just a stepping stone. I'm completely fine with that."

A woman (Sartore): I want to aim at Kai's gun arm. Do I have an angle?

Otter: It would go past and hit directly his chest.

A woman (Sartore): And Alice's?

Otter: More or less the same.

A woman (Sartore): "PUT THE FUCKING GUNS DOWN NOW!" My balaclava's coming off.

Otter: "How do you feel about being nothing but a stepping stone in the grand scheme of things? Did it all matter whatsoever?"

Otter: He takes his own mask off in response.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "I have nothing to say to either of you. If you're planning to off yourselves be my guest."

Alligator: "You really should've used the internet less."

Alice Telley: "Shut up. Stop being a fucking retard for five seconds and open your eyes. Our deaths, your deaths, its all meaningless."

Kai Owen Monroe: "It's not going to change what's coming."

Kai Owen Monroe: "In five years, everyone will be dead."

Alice Telley: "That means all of you."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "About that."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "What's the endgame for all this shit?"

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "You must know."

Kai Owen Monroe: "I'm quite familiar to it, actually. The end of the enslavement. Our god, freed, consuming the rest."

Alice Telley: "It will be a feast like none other."

Kai Owen Monroe: Despite it all, Monroe is the source of the smell.

A large man (Cruz): "Your god sounds like a fat piece of shit."

Kai Owen Monroe: "Our god. Not mine."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "Sounds like you're recycling a myth. You guys really fell for it hook line and sinker."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "And what, are we gonna be a part of it? I just don't get why they'd make us the 'teeth' and not, say, a guy like you who'd actually be up to help end the world."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: These guys are wearing vests. I'm sighting in on Alice's arm while everyone's talking.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "It seems a little counterproductive."

Kai Owen Monroe: "You still refuse to believe it. There is no hook. There is no line. There is no fucking sinker. And the only direction we are headed towards is the mouth of annihilation. To feed the eternal hunger."

Kai Owen Monroe: "There is only one way out of this, and the way has been written down to the last detail on the subatomic level."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "I guess you don't know the specifics then."

Kai Owen Monroe: "I just told you. You don't have much time left."

SDUDM George E. Jones: "They're working with bad info. I'm done here." George turns around and heads for the hatch.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "So that's the big fucking plan then? Why put all this shit up instead of getting to it? Fun?"

Kai Owen Monroe: "Love your close ones while you still can. Soon, it will all be over."

Kai Owen Monroe: He holds Alice's hand tight.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "More time than you." I unload on the both of them.

Kai Owen Monroe: Before you have a chance to do that...

Alice Telley: Condition Changes Dead

Kai Owen Monroe: Condition Changes Dead

A large man (Cruz): "...Fuck this."

Hunger: You do a number on both bodies.

A large man (Cruz): I head to the hatch myself.

Hunger: It certainly doesn't look like a suicide anymore.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'll let my gun hang.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: "TOC. It's over."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Y'think we beat the dealer this time around? Or does it not count 'cause they're not actually the real deal, or something?"

Hunger: "THIS IS VIRGINIA STATE POLICE. YOU ARE SURROUNDED COME OUT WITH YOUR HANDS RAISED."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: I shrug and get ready to turn myself in.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Secure the laptop."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "In fact, no."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "Destroy it."

SDUDM George E. Jones: George slings his gun as he gets ready to turn himself in "This was a waste of time."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "What fucking laptop?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "..."

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: Sajdak, roll INT.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: DUSM Michael Sajdak rolls Success -> 52 (Rolling INT Target: 80%)

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: He is matter of fact talking about something you have no idea of.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'll wipe my eyes with my sleeve and go through them.

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "It's in the gym storage room. Get to it and blast it."

SA Francesca R. Sartore: Oh, so it's not here.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "How the fuck do you know about that?!"

Hunger: It would be down the hatch and the stairs.

A large man (Cruz): "I'll get to it."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Hey, Pitz, what the fuck is going on here?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: "I'll see you later, okay?"

U.S. Attorney Antony Pitzerelli: Your radio cuts off.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "PITZ!"

SA Francesca R. Sartore: That bomb-- where is it?

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I need to locate it to be able to tell the cops outside.

Hunger: Sartore, roll Milsci (Land)

SDUDM George E. Jones: It's defused.

SDUDM George E. Jones: Isn't it?

A large man (Cruz): "Found the storage room!"

Hunger: You probably can't do anything about an inert bomb right now before calling EOD.

Hunger: The laptop is right here, though.

Hunger: Cruz?

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Can we get anything out of this laptop before we blow it to shit? What if we took the harddrive out THEN shot it?

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I thought he'd left the 'big one' on, soz.

A large man (Cruz): Can I try and open it, before shooting it to bits?

DUSM Michael Sajdak: Something is REALLY fucking fishy here.

SA Francesca R. Sartore: I'm heading out to the front doors, they can tell me later...

Hunger: It's open. Tons of tabs, camera views... what have you. A sticky note on the keyboard says: "It's been a real game of cat and mouse."

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Oh ha-ha."

A large man (Cruz): Anything of note in the sea of tabs?

Hunger: You have zero time to analyze this. Blast it or it's gonna be evidence.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "Blow it."

A large man (Cruz): Fuck it- I'll unload into it,.

Hunger: It's blown to bits and pieces in sparks.

Hunger: You're done.

Hunger: Everyone, SANLOSS.

DUSM Michael Sajdak: "FUCK!!!!!"

Hunger: As you lay down your weapons and begin walking out in a single file line out the front door, you scream "FEDERAL AGENT!!!"

Hunger: No one shoots back. For a change.

Hunger: DELTA GREEN - GOD'S TEETH - THEY WANTED PEACE

Hunger: A game about futility.

Hunger: 2026 by Quororque.

Hunger: Thanks for playing!
